Coolidge Feels Time Not Ripe to Hold Conference on Reparations

MAY WAIT FOR HOOVER

Europe Uncertain Whether

Washington — The Coolidge administration is showing a disinclination to get behind the proposed reparations conference through the participation of American experts. Although it is emphasized, of course, that the American business men would act in a private capacity just as did the Dawes-Young-Robinson mission four years ago, nevertheless the success of the Dawes plan followed by such a definite espousal by the administration, it would be difficult of course to dissociate the American government from any such future conferences. The president is represented as feeling that the time may not be ripe for the conference anyhow. There are many things Europe will have to do to convince the American investor who is expected to buy reparations bonds, and besides the armament discussion is of such a nature that the two subjects — reparations and future armaments — are being interwoven, at least in diplomacy.

BRIAND'S VIEWPOINT

The suggestion of Foreign Minister Briand that the next naval pact be postponed till after the Hoover administration has had a chance to get into the saddle is regarded here as really meaning that the whole reparations conference problem with the delicate experts from various countries will be postponed until Herbert Hoover is inaugurated. There is a division of opinion here as to whether the European governments will find Mr. Hoover taking a point of view much different from that of his predecessor, as he too is interested in seeing some agreement reached on naval policy. In other words he may be preparing to trade American participation in the reparations conference of experts for some definite program of naval limitation. The two subjects are close enough together to be interdependent and the objective of the United States, it is felt here, in linking the two together would be approved on the theory that until the American

ACQUITTED MAN TO SUE 7 OFFICIALS

Delavan Youth, Freed in Culvert Case, Takes Action Against Officers

Lake Geneva — (AP) — Proceedings under the discovery statute seeking to lay the basis for a suit against seven men, including the district attorney and sheriff of Walworth county, have been asked of Circuit Court Commissioner Franklin J. Tyrell by attorneys for Donald La Fave, Delavan youth who has held for a time and then exonerated of murder charges in the Elkhorn 'culvert murder mystery'.

Notices have been filed with Mr. Tyrell, who has rejected on it. Those whom the attorneys seek to bring into court are District Attorney Charles Williams of Walworth county; Sheriff Hal Wylie; Andrew Williamson, Delavan; Dr. E. T. Ridgway, mayor of Elkhorn; Fred Granz, Delavan; George Dillenbeck, Delavan, and Easton Johnson, Delavan.

This move is the outgrowth of the holding of La Fave on the murder charges for several weeks. An investigation by county officials had caused them to believe that screams heard coming from the LaFave cottage on Delavan lake might have had a connection with the slaying of an unidentified girl whose body was found stuffed in a culvert near Elkhorn. They later discarded this theory and exonerated and released LaFave who at that time hinted he might start a suit.

MARQUETTE POET AND PROF IS NEAR DEATH

Milwaukee — (AP) — Physicians Friday held no hopes for recovery of John D. Logan, Marquette professor and poet laureate of Canada, who is ill with bronchial pneumonia and influenza.

Mr. Logan, who is head of the English department at Marquette, became ill a week ago and has been confined in the Marquette University hospital since Saturday. Thursday night Mr. Logan suffered a relapse, and Friday Dr. Anthony J. Caffrey, attending physician, said the disease was attacking the professor's heart. Mr. Logan has been with the local institution since 1925.

120 Students Ill, Close Lawrence College

BAR VISITORS FROM ASYLUM AND HOSPITAL

More Children Forced Out of School and Epidemic
Rages in City

Lawrence college was closed Friday noon and visitors have been barred from St. Elizabeth hospital and Outagamie-co asylum in an effort to stop the epidemic of colds which up to now has shown no indication of diminishing.

Dr. H. M. Wriston, president of the college, announced at chapel Friday morning that school would close at noon so nurses and attendants at the school can devote their entire time to nursing the 100 or more students now confined to beds because of illness. The number of cases requiring infirmity care almost doubled since Thursday but a large number of the patients have only minor colds which will not prevent them from leaving for their homes.

MORE ABSENTEES

The number of absentees from public and parochial schools has increased since the order of Dr. E. J. Doherty, health officer, to exclude all children with colds. School authorities do not believe it wise to suspend classes because the children then will be permitted to roam about the streets and in the stores and the danger of infection will be greater than it now is.

Some physicians say that at least half of the homes in the city are touched by the malady and that more than 10 per cent of all people have colds of some degree. Five cases of influenza have been reported to the city health department but no deaths from that cause have occurred in Appleton. The death of a child near Stockbridge was attributed to influenza and it is said there are a number of serious cases near Appleton.

Not only are visitors barred from the hospital but only emergency operations will be permitted until the epidemic subsides because the staff of nurses and attendants has been decimated. Hospital authorities fear visitors will infect patients now in the institution and increase the institution's difficulties. Superintendent Thomas Flanagan of the county asylum said his patients thus far have escaped the epidemic but he fears it will be brought into the institution unless visitors are barred.

Druggists are doing a land office business as doctors send a steady stream of prescriptions from their patients. Some druggists are filling as many as 100 prescriptions a day and there doesn't seem to be much of a slump in the demand.

FEW SERIOUS CASES

Very few of the cases are serious and most of the doctors make only one call to their patients who are advised to remain in bed and keep warm. Most of the sufferers are

DAIRYING 3 BILLION DOLLAR U. S. INDUSTRY

Washington — (AP) — Dairying now is a three billion dollar industry and has almost doubled its lead upon corn and swine, its nearest contenders in honors among agricultural products.

O. E. Reed, chief of the bureau of dairy industry, department of agriculture, in relating the details of the bureau's activities to a house appropriations subcommittee, disclosed also that the search of the department for new uses for dairy products had led them far afield in experimentation.

Chief among the new uses that had been discovered was a milk sugar. Four million pounds of this product is made yearly, he added and is used largely in sanitariums and hospitals.

Other experiments, he said, were being conducted to improve the varieties of cheese made in this country. Discovery of a method of making cheeses of several foreign types, Reed said, would provide a market for ten million dollars worth of milk.

Sinclair To Face Fraud Suit By U. S.

Attorney-General Aid Tells Committee That Action to Start Soon

Washington — (AP) — William J. Donovan, assistant to the attorney general, told a senate investigating committee Friday that fraud proceedings have been prepared against the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company, which held a contract for the Salt Creek royalty oil, recently cancelled.

The suit under consideration, Donovan said, is for the recovery in its profits made by the company in its operation of the government oil fields since it obtained the contract from Albert Fall, former secretary of the interior, in 1922.

It has been estimated that a sum of about $4,000,000 is involved. The Sinclair contract was renewed last February by Secretary Work of the interior department, but it was cancelled last October after an inquiry by the department of justice.

"What is the object of filing fraud papers now?" asked Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, "after the contract is cancelled?"

EAIL IS NAMED

The department's fraud proceedings, read by Donovan to the committee, named Albert B. Fall, Harry P. Sinclair, the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company and the Sinclair Pipe line company. It asked an accounting by them of the contract left to Sinclair in 1922 for the Salt Creek royalty oil and a statement of "all gains and profits made by them" until the contract was invalidated last October.

PAYROLL CLERK SHOT DURING HOLDUP EFFORT

Spartanburg, S. C. — (AP) — Earle Belu, 30, payroll clerk of the Earle Belu mills, was shot in the head and probably fatally wounded Friday when two men attempted to hold him up and seize the payroll of the mill.

Chance revealed her flight acquiescence with Fearn during the last few months. Heidman picked from a wastebasket in their home Thursday a crumpled suicide note she had written several days ago and then discarded. Confronted with its contents, she admitted she was the comely young woman slayer for whom a wide search was being made.

400 POUNDS OF MAIL AWAITS FIRST FLIGHT

Appleton Gets on United
Saturday Morning

Saturday will see the inauguration of air mail service in Appleton and the Fox river valley.

Daily thereafter residents of Appleton will be able to receive or send mail, via the air, to any section of the country with considerable saving of time.

The first air mail plane, due here at 8:40 Saturday morning, is expected to carry several hundred pounds of mail for local people. In addition to the mail plane a 16-passenger tri-motor Ford ship, carrying representatives of newspaper and chambers of commerce in those cities on the new route, will be here.

SEND REPRESENTATIVES

Alderman Mike Steinhauer, representing the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, and a representative of the Appleton Post-Crescent went to Milwaukee Friday afternoon to be passengers on the initial flight Saturday morning, leaving Milwaukee about 7:30.

The new air mail line was selected several weeks ago by the federal postal department. The line will operate from Milwaukee to Green Bay daily with stops at Fond du Lac, Oshkosh and Appleton. Planes will arrive in Appleton from Milwaukee about 8:40 each morning and will leave Appleton for Milwaukee at 4:05 each afternoon.

It is expected that several hundred pounds of mail will be dispatched on the first southbound flight Saturday afternoon according to E. F. Wetengel, acting postmaster.

More than 6,000 letters were in the postoffice Friday morning awaiting dispatch Saturday afternoon, including hundreds sent to Appleton by people residing in other cities.

EXPECT MORE SUPPORT

Up to Friday morning Appleton residents were a bit lagard in their support of the initial flight but Mr. Wetengel says he expected thousands of letters will be placed in the mail by local people before Saturday afternoon. Many business firms and professional men have agreed to spend all their first class mail via air on Saturday.

At Oshkosh businessmen and chamber of commerce have set a ton of outgoing air mail as their goal for the initial flight. Mr. Wetengel expects that 300 or possibly 400 pounds will be dispatched from Appleton.

Mail sent from Appleton will go directly to Chicago where it will be transferred to the main air mail lines operating east, west and south. The Northwest Airways company of Minneapolis, Minn., has the contract to carry the mail on the Fox river valley route.

No formal program or arrangements are being made to greet the first air mail flight here but it is expected that hundreds of local people will be at the airport to see the arrival of the first plane.

WOMAN ADMITS MURDER AND THEN KILLS HERSELF

Canton, O. — (AP) — Mrs. Margaret Heidman, 21, of Lorain, O., Thursday night fired a bullet into her heart. A week ago she called Bernard E. Fearn, 35-year-old coal dealer, to the door of his home and shot him to death in the presence of his wife and child.

The young woman's husband, W. O. Heidman, a furnace salesman, was enroute with her from their home at Lorain to the office of Sheriff Edward Gibson here when she took her life. She had confessed everything to her husband and had agreed to surrender herself.

Chance revealed her flight acquiescence with Fearn during the last few months. Heidman picked from a wastebasket in their home Thursday a crumpled suicide note she had written several days ago and then discarded. Confronted with its contents, she admitted she was the comely young woman slayer for whom a wide search was being made.

Put on your hat and coat,"

Heidman yelled at her. They got in their car and started for Canton, where they lived until they moved to Lorain on Oct. 22. On arrival, Mrs. Heidman told her

Good Fellows Can Make Christmas Happy For Poor

The first responses to the appeal to Good Fellows to help make Christmas merry for the poor indicates that the spirit of Christmas still thrives in the materialistic age. The first mail after the appeal brought checks and cash and it is hoped the number of memberships in the 1929 Good Fellow club will grow with every hour.

There isn't a great deal of time left to get in the contributions but the poor will be taken care of if all those who can help will be Good Fellows.

It takes a lot of money to play Santa Claus to Appleton's poor children if each one gets only a very little. It would be a real calamity if any child is missed because there aren't enough Good Fellows in Appleton to provide the money necessary to remember them.

The situation of the poor shows little change from year to year. There always is about the same number in destitute circumstances. Every year a number of families are helped out of their troubles so they can take care of themselves but their places are taken by others who are forced into the depths of poverty by deaths and illness. Only those actively engaged in the work of relieving suffering are families with the situation of these families, of the heroic efforts of widowed mothers to feed and clothe their young families, of the weight of care and worry which is breaking down men and women so they cannot take care of themselves.

The children of these families are in no way responsible for their condition and it seems a pity that they should be deprived of the heritage of a happy Christmas because of circumstances over which they have no control.

If Good Fellows will do their part these children of the "unfortunate" will have at least a little to make them happy on the great holiday. You can help in this splendid work by clipping the membership coupon on another page in this paper and sending it with your membership fee to the Good Fellows club, care of the Post-Crescent.

FIND BODY OF AGED LITTLE CHUTE MAN IN HIGHWAY DITCH

Decide There Will Be no Inquest as Death Was Caused by Exposure

The body of Arthur Gesling, 55, Little Chute widower, was found in a pool of water about 7:30 Friday morning in a deep ditch along a county road about two miles north of Little Chute in the town of Vandenberg. The body was submerged in the water, but the head was not and after an investigation Dr. H. E. Stalld, coroner, and Stanley A. Stalld, assistant district attorney, announced death was due to exposure.

As there was no evidence of foul play the officers said there will be no inquest. Gesling, who had been living alone since the death of his wife, started for his home from the village late Thursday night. It is believed he became confused and instead of turning south he turned north and wandered several miles out of his way.

The body was found about 7:30 Friday morning by Henry Van Dornel, a farmer carrying milk to a cheese factory. Van Dornel notified James Gerrits, chief of police at Little Chute, who summoned Mr. Stalld and Dr. Ellsworth. The body was so covered with mud that at first it was impossible to identify Gesling.

Gesling is survived by two brothers and several sisters living in Holland.

SUSPECT PLOT TO BURN CHURCH IN MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee — (AP) — An incendiary plot was suspended Friday with the binding of a three-gallon can of gasoline with a coil of rope as a wick against the door of the English Lutheran church of the Resurrection.

A match had been touched to the wick but the fire had gone out. Police believe some maniac tried to fire the church.

The Rev. L. W. Steckel, pastor of the church, could not explain why anyone should want to burn it. The janitor said he had seen no one loitering around the institution.

CASHIER IN ROBBERY TO CONFRONT 2

Youths Held at Milwaukee
Admit They Were at Green Bay Wednesday

Milwaukee — (AP) — The detective bureau here Friday was awaiting the arrival of Thel's Noel, cashier of the farmers Exchange bank at Green Bay, to view two youthful suspects arrested here in connection with the $40,000 robbery of the bank Wednesday night.

The youths, 19 and 20, were arrested Thursday night in a house under construction. They said they had just returned from a hitch hike from Green Bay and that they went to the vacant house to get out of the rain. They deny any part in the robbery.

The Green Bay police learned that the two were in Green Bay at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. This the boys admit. They had been employed on a farm near Sobleski, Wis., and on the farm they had access to binder twine and burlap bags similar to the bags used by the bandits. One of these was left behind by the robbers.

Contrast of the attitude of the youths with that of the robbers inclined police to believe they have the wrong pair. The youths that are held here are so frightened that they can hardly speak. The robbers, on the other hand, were cool during the robbery.

YOUTHS FREED HERE TO GO TO WAUPACA

Dismiss Burglary Charges
so Young Men Can Be Tried for Hold-up

Criminal charges against Earl Wing, 26, Leo Wing, 19, and Roscoe Baker, 22, all of the town of Liberty, and Claude Metz, 19, of Shiocton, were dismissed in municipal court by Judge Theodore Berg Friday morning on orders of Stanley A. Stalld, assistant district attorney.

Mr. Stalld pointed out that evidence against the two Wings and Metz for alleged complicity in the holdup of the Earl Dennison saloon at Bear Creek Corners Waupaca-co, is much stronger than the evidence against them on charges against them here. He pointed out that he believed Baker was not guilty and that the district attorney's office was satisfied that he should go free.

He said, however, that the chances for a conviction of the three youths on the more serious charge of robbery in the night time was better than the chances that they would be convicted here.

Three counts were filed against the youths here. All four were charged with larceny, the two Wings and Metz were charged with possession of stolen property and Earl Wing and Metz were charged with the theft of an automobile from the Rainbow Gardens on Thanksgiving night.

The arrest of the four followed the burglarizing of the Shiocton Hardware company store early Sunday morning, Nov. 20.

After the four youths were in jail here it was learned that three young men had held up and robbed the soft drink parlor at Bear Creek Corners by a deputy sheriff. He was still held under technical arrest resulting from a 24 hour investigation by Sheriff W. M. Flanagan and state's attorney Lewis. He answered all questions with "I don't know who could have done it."

The other "Hundred" and his wife were shot to death with a .45 calibre pistol.

NATIONS ARE WORKING TO AVERT STRIFE

Pan-American Conference
Votes to Offer Services to Bolivia, Paraguay

PEACE HOPE BRIGHTENS

Bolivia Not Represented and Paraguay Fails to Vote at Gathering

Washington — (AP) — With Bolivia absent and Paraguay refraining from voting, the Pan-American conference decided Friday to offer its good offices to the two countries to conciliate their boundary dispute.

With the exception of the two nations, the vote was unanimous. The conciliation proposal was presented by Victor Maura of Peru, and seconded by Ambassador Ferrara of Cuba, its author. It provides that the special conference committee constituted to look into the controversy should be maintained to render whatever services are accepted.

As has been the case ever since the present dispute between Bolivia and Paraguay reached the danger stage, late developments can be taken to indicate either a peaceful settlement of the difficulty, or a continuation of the war.

SEE PROGRESS

On the whole, however, those working for conciliation have been heartened by the trend of affairs, especially by the news that Argentina had no objection to efforts by the Pan-American conference on conciliation and arbitration meeting here to bring about a solution of the trouble.

Argentina was the only one of the American republics not represented at the convention. A Bolivian-Paraguayan commission is meeting in Buenos Aires to discuss boundary claims. These facts have caused the conference to proceed carefully, it being felt that Argentina might think she had priority in mediation efforts. When Argentina informed the conference that she waived whatever priority she might have, work began in earnest.

Even before the sessions opened, a special international committee intended to solve the row was in the process of formation. This committee did little until it learned Argentina's attitude and then began protracted deliberations.

Not all the news reaching the conference Thursday was favorable to peace. Almost coincident with Argentina's communication, the Paraguayan charge d'affaires transmitted a note to the state department in which he said there seemed danger of "imminent war."

ALLEGE CONCENTRATION

The note said that the Paraguayan government had been informed that Bolivia was concentrating troops and war materials on the frontier. It was declared that this enhanced the prospect of an armed conflict because Paraguay kept a relatively strong garrison in the neighborhood.

In turn, the Bolivian legation said it had no knowledge of the concentration, declaring instead that advances from La Paz were that no mobilization of resources had taken place. Diego de Medina, the Bolivian minister, explained, however, that there might be anxiety in Bolivia to have reinforcements near the border because of the clash there last week between Bolivian and Paraguayan troops.

Minister Medina in the course of the day reiterated that his government, while agreeable to participation in the conference, still felt that Bolivia should receive reparation from Paraguay before any steps were taken toward conciliation.

From the start of the trouble, both countries have contended that the other was at fault in the border fight. The Paraguayan charge d'affaires in Paris dispatched a note Thursday to the council of the league of nations in which was given the Paraguayan version of the armed conflict. He said that Bolivian troops made excursions into Paraguayan territory and when they were requested to withdraw they attacked Paraguayan troops.

SON FAILS TO GIVE CLEW IN MURDER CASE

Cerbondale, Ill. — (AP) — Victor A. Hundley, 32-year-old coal dealer was questioned for seven hours here Thursday night by Jackson county officials and newspapermen but he failed to throw any light on the slaying of his acid father and step-mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hundley, Wednesday night.

Hundley was released at 4 o'clock Friday morning, to go home accompanied by a deputy sheriff. He was still held under technical arrest resulting from a 24 hour investigation by Sheriff W. M. Flanagan and state's attorney Lewis. He answered all questions with "I don't know who could have done it."

The other "Hundred" and his wife were shot to death with a .45 calibre pistol.

VALERIE COX NOT GUILTY OF SLAYING

Jury Acquits Minneapolis Violinist of Olson Death—Was Out 15 Hours

Hayward—(P)—Miss Valerie Cox, Minneapolis violinist, was acquitted in circuit court here Friday of first degree murder charges growing out of the death of Elmer Olson, Minneapolis song writer last July, following a resort party near Hayward. The jury brought in its verdict at 9:28 Friday morning after deliberating for more than 15 hours.

Miss Cox, who had remained stolid the past two days while state attorneys sought to prove she had stabbed to death the young Minneapolis composer "through jealousy," broke down when the verdict was heard.

Olson received a wound in his abdomen during a cottage party near here July 18 and died the following day. A coroner's inquest failed to affix blame for Olson's death and Miss Cox was released. She suffered a breakdown after five hours of deliberation, the jury was locked up at 10:30 Thursday evening and resumed its determination Friday morning.

The jury, which included five farmers and two laborers, received the case without calling a single witness to substantiate testimony that Miss Cox had once attempted to kill Olson, and that she had expressed a desire to kill him on other occasions.

A. M. Funn, Minneapolis, defense counsel told the jurors no evidence had been submitted to indicate that Olson had been slain, and attempted to break down testimony of state witnesses in his final statement to the jury.

Racine—(P)—Construction of a $1,000,000 steel plant is contemplated by the Nash Motors company, C. W. Nash, president, said in an address here Thursday night. The site would probably be in this city, he said.

The Nash company, it is understood, plans the establishing of large general offices to consolidate the offices maintained at the plants in Milwaukee, Racine and Kenosha.

Mr. Nash spoke before the Up-town Business men's association and explained that not only a steel plant was considered but also that further construction was necessary to the Racine shops.

WISCONSIN WEATHER
Mostly cloudy tonight and Saturday; probably rain tonight in north-east portion; no decided change in temperature.

GENERAL WEATHER
The pressure is high this morning over the province of Ontario and Quebec, while the low pressure, or storm, area noted yesterday over the south central states has moved to northern Illinois and adjacent territory. This pressure movement has resulted in extensive rains over the central portion of the country. More rain is probable here as this "low" moves northeastward. The pressures are still low over the west, with mostly moderate temperatures and considerable unsettled weather and no pronounced change from existing conditions is probable here for a day or two.

WEST HEARING
Inquiry into the Sinclair contract which was cancelled last October started in the committee with the examination of Roy O. West whose nomination as interior secretary is pending, but Senator Walsh, has declared the investigation of only "remote relation" to the West nomination.

Dr. Work, who resigned as secretary to become chairman of the Republican national committee, told the committee Thursday that he renewed the Sinclair contract on the advice of government legal experts.

The renewal was turned over to the department of justice last April, two months after it had been allowed, he said, upon receipt of protests of the legality of a "one" final agreement in the original Sinclair contract.

Last Oct. 17, two days after the New York World had published complaints received from Senator Walsh on the legality of the lease and in the midst of the national campaign, the department of justice ruling was announced.

James P. Kim, counsel for the White Eagle Oil company, who protested the Sinclair contract renewal, told the committee Thursday of presenting his case to the interior department, to the department of justice, to Senator Capper, Republican, of Kansas, and finally to senator Walsh last September. He volunteered that he had no complaint against the departments and said he had commended Secretary West for the manner in which he had cancelled the Sinclair contract after the department of justice had acted.

PARTRIDGE LEAVES PETTIBONE STORE

Succeeded as Merchandise Manager by Ray Eichelberger of Wausau

C. B. Partridge Friday announced his resignation as merchandise manager of the Pettibone-Peabody Co., effective at the end of the year, to take an executive position with a chain store organization headquartered in Chicago.

Mr. Partridge will be succeeded as merchandise manager by Ray Eichelberger, Wausau, who will come here Jan. 1, or perhaps a little earlier. Mr. Eichelberger's latest connection was with the Winkelman Co. store at Wausau but he was trained with the Harris Emery Co. of Des Moines, Iowa.

Mr. Partridge came to Appleton last January, to succeed H. L. Post as merchandise manager from Eau Claire where he was vice president of the Kepner Co. Prior to his Eau Claire connection he was associated with the Dry Goods Economist in that magazine's Chicago office.

Mrs. Partridge, their son Richard and daughter Bonita, who is to graduate from Appleton high school next spring, will remain in Appleton until after-school closes because, Mr. Partridge said, his new work involves extensive traveling for some time.

Mrs. Eta Mae Miller of Lansing, Mich., mother of 10 children, of whom four are living, faces a life term in the penitentiary for selling liquor. Mrs. Miller was convicted under Michigan's habitual criminal code which makes a life sentence mandatory for four felonies. State Senator Seymour Person, who defended Mrs. Miller, announced he would appeal the case and act in the next legislature to have the law repealed. Mrs. Miller's husband is serving a two-year prison term, and she is the sole support of her children, the youngest of whom is 13.

COUNCIL VOTES TO REPAIR FIFTH PIER

Dick and Blake Construction Company Only Bidder on Work

Dick and Blake Construction company, Appleton, was ordered to proceed with underpinning the fifth pier on the S. Oneida-st bridge at a special meeting of the common council Thursday evening. The construction company's bid of $7,250 for doing the work was accepted. There were no other bidders.

The Appleton company is expected to finish underpinning the first, second and third abutments Friday and then will start work on the fifth. The aldermen admitted the bid was high but decided that if cold weather set in soon perhaps it would cost considerably more to complete the work.

Aldermen Philip Vogt informed the council he had been told an injunction would be served against the city if it accepted the bid. The council decided that was unlikely because a bond would have to be furnished if an injunction were asked and if the pier was carried away during the spring by high water, the protesting parties might have to pay for an entirely new bridge.

WERNER LEAVES TO ATTEND Y MEETING

G. F. Werner, general secretary of the local Y. M. C. A. left Friday morning to attend a two day session of general secretaries from throughout the state at the Milwaukee association building. Reports of state officers will be presented, and secretarial problems will be discussed.

HOOVER IS PLEASED BY WARM WELCOME IN BUENOS AIRES

President-Elect Well Guarded but Doubts Bomb Plot
Was Aimed at Him

Buenos Aires (AP)—Herbert Hoover was highly pleased Friday over the hearty welcome given him by the people of Buenos Aires. The first capital that he has visited on the eastern coast of South America. His trip down the slopes of the Andes and across the fertile pampas gave him a feeling of exaltation at the accomplishments of the people of Argentina.

The Argentine government, anxious that no untoward incident mar Mr. Hoover's visit, continued Friday to surround him and his party with every precaution for their safety. Secret service men guarded every avenue of approach. Their vigilance was due to possibilities indicated before his arrival by several arrests and seizure of arms and railway maps.

Mr. Hoover and members of his party seemed inclined to doubt that there had been any plot against him. The enthusiastic welcome given the president-elect indicated there was no anti-American feeling on the part of the people. This enthusiasm prompted Mr. Hoover to issue this statement:

PRaises COUNTRY

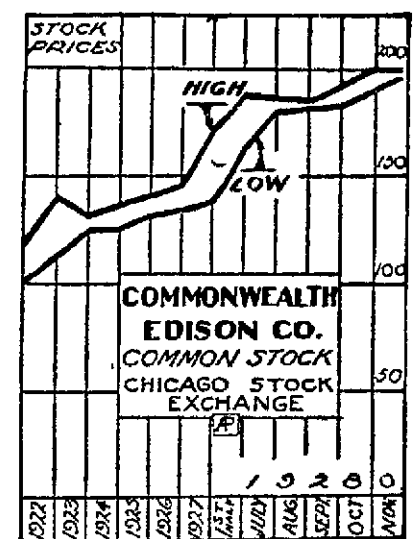

"I could imagine no more wonderful journey than through the Andes. One is plunged at once into a realization of its greatness, its splendid development and its magnificent resources. As a student of human advancement, I have a feeling of exaltation at the accomplishment of the people of Argentina to which I have been witness. I am deeply grateful for the genuine spirit of kindness and welcome extended me by President Irigoyen and evidenced by many thousands of people.

The enthusiasm of the greeting given Mr. Hoover disrupted an elaborate reception that had been planned and prevented a parade from the station to the United States embassy.

A red plush carpet had been laid at the railroad station and Mr. Hoover and members of his party stepped onto it as they left their special train. The first person to shake hands with the president-elect was President Irigoyen, who rarely appears at public functions. Thousands were gathered around, cheering and shouting "Viva Hoover!"

For a time cavalry was able to hold the crowd in check. When Mr. Hoover and Senor Irigoyen left the carpeted station platform, however, police lines gave way and the crowd surged about. The Argentine president and his guest had a hard time gaining the automobile which took them to the United States embassy. The cavalry escort and others who were to be in the procession were left to follow as they might.

COMPANY CUTS ELECTRIC RATE ON OWN VOLITION

Chicago (AP)—Commonwealth Edison company, which does practically all the central station electric power and light business of Chicago voluntarily has cut its rate twice this year, and expects the reduction practically will be offset by increased consumption.

Net income has nearly tripled in seven years. Net for the first nine of 1928 was equal to $8.70 a share of capital stock, against $8.62 a share for the like period of 1927.

For several years the company has maintained a large working capital. At the end of last year total current assets were $28,118,000. Dividends have been at the rate of $8 annually since 1914. Capital stock was increased to $124,392,400 last December, when rights, quoted from $1.50 to $3, were granted. Funded debt totals about $120,000,000, of which about half is due in 1943.

The company, largest steam electricity-producing enterprise in the world, controls the Chicago Rapid company and owns about 100 miles of mainline railroad connecting with leading trunk systems.

In order to assure itself of ample coal supplies, it has purchased important bituminous properties in Illinois and Indiana.

HOW HE STANDS IT? Senlin, Serbia—little village near here houses what is said to be the oldest married couple in the world. Demetrius Filipovic and his wife, Zivana, with 89 years of married life, claim the title. He is 110 and she 107.

Rhythm is the most primitive factor in music, but melody is the stronghold of the memory and that means that on melody rests the immediate or ultimate popularity of every piece of music.

field for aviation. With present facilities, it takes three weeks to send a letter from Peking to Changtu, the capital of China's most populous province, although the distance by air is only about 1,000 miles. From Hankow to Canton is but a short airplane flight of 530 miles, but the journey overland requires a week or more.

NOW ABLE TO EAT BREAKFAST FIRST TIME IN A YEAR

Strength and Energy Built Up
Wonderfully By Sargon
Says Mazier

The remarkable restorations to health that the new scientific formula, Sargon, is accomplishing every day throughout Milwaukee and the surrounding territory, has become the talk of the drug trade of this vicinity as well as the many thousands whom it has so wonderfully benefited. It is a well founded and logical belief that what Sargon has done for your neighbors and so many others it will do for you. Every sufferer owes it to himself to give this medicine a trial when scores of men and women are daily coming forward and stating the remarkable results they have received from this revolutionary treatment.

The Sargon claims are not based on mere promises but actual cases, personal instances of remarkable results accomplished right here in Appleton and elsewhere. Cases for instance, like that of Philip Mazier, of 933 Fraternity St., Milwaukee. Mr. Mazier is employed in the assembly department of the Weinberg Shoe Co., and is very popular and highly respected among a wide circle of friends and acquaintances. He said:

"Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills have meant so much to me that I want to pass the good news along for the benefit of others who are trying to find the right medicine for their troubles. 'The past two years I suffered no end of trouble from my stomach and constipation. I would have severe spells of biliousness, and it I even dared to eat a hearty meal I would suffer for it afterwards with gas and indigestion pains. I tell you, for the past year I was even unable to eat breakfast at all, and that used to be my best meal. My general health just kept going from bad to worse until I got in such a nervous run-down condition I hardly had strength or energy enough to do anything.

"But about thirty days ago I heard of Sargon and began taking this new medicine, and today I feel a hundred per cent better in every way. My appetite improved from the start and since I finished taking my second bottle of Sargon I haven't noticed a sign of indigestion or gas pains. For the first time in over a year I can eat a good breakfast and I don't have the least bad after-effects. The nervousness and cramps has been built up to such a point that I can put in a full day's work without tiring in the least.

"I took the Sargon Soft Mass Pills along with Sargon and found that they did not grip or nauseate, but acted in a natural manner with splendid results. It's a real pleasure to endorse this wonderful new medicine after the remarkable results it has given me."

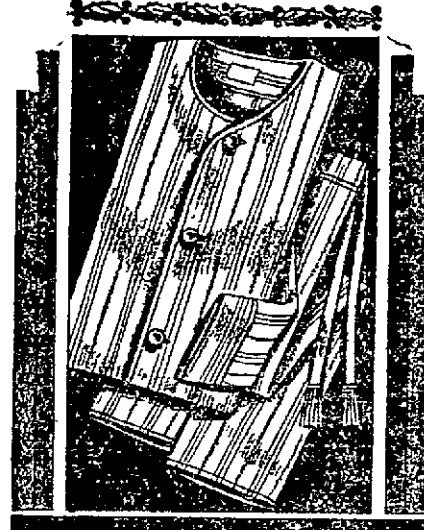

Sargon may be obtained in Appleton from Voigt's Drug Store.

AVIATION INDUSTRY HAS URGE TO MERGE

Manufacturers and Distributors Already Considering Consolidation

New York (AP)—The aviation industry, like many other before it, is passing through the era of mergers. Consolidation of manufacturers, distributing and operating agencies is regarded as a beneficial influence for centralization and economical coordination of allied interests. Banks and brokerage houses also have encouraged this urge to merge which has come upon a young industry possibly some years in advance of expectation.

Financing through public stock and bond offerings has increased in volume, bespeaking growing interest of an American public long accus-tomed of being slow in making up its "air mind."

Consolidation of Western Air Express, Fokker Aircraft and Universal Aircraft is typical and Universal consumed, the combination being a transportation and manufacturing unit making and using planes suitable for every commercial field of aerial activity. Similarly Boeing Airplane and Transport corporation was formed to take over Boeing Airplane company and Pacific Air Transport, while Keystone Aircraft absorbed Loening Aeronautical Engineering corporation.

Another development has been the bringing of capital into the aviation industry, as witness the $2,000,000 financing of Bellanca Aircraft corporation by eastern capitalists to enable the corporation to fill an order for 300 planes, one of the largest ever placed.

Talk of pending consolidations is general in the industry. Merger of Pratt & Whitney Aircraft company, maker of airplane motors; Chance Vought corporation, which manufactures fast military planes, with the new Boeing corporation, is regarded as a possibility. It has been suggested also that Travel Air Manufacturing company and Wright Aeronautical might enter the Keystone-Loening combination.

FIELDS OF MORE PROFIT SOUGHT BY AVIATION

New York (AP)—Air transport, having demonstrated that it is profitable in competition with the world's best railways in Europe and America, is now looking for greater profits in sections where it will have little or no rail competition.

Richard F. Hoyt, chairman of the board of the newly organized Aviation Corporation of the Americas, which plans transport service through Central America, to the West Indies, and along the west and north coasts of South America, believes the project will prove one of the most profitable air transport ventures ever undertaken, pointing out that the only competition is offered by the comparatively slow-moving steamship.

SMALL PROGRAM OF PAVING IS PLANNED FOR ENSUING YEAR

Approximately $40,000 Will Be Spent to Replace Creosote Blocks

One of the smallest paving programs in recent years is planned by the common council for 1929. It is indicated by Mayor A. C. Rule. Expenditures for this activity will total approximately $40,000 if the tentative program recently submitted to the aldermen is adopted. This is the sum set aside in the budget for next year.

Recommendations for paving only three streets, totaling about 16 blocks, will be made to the council, according to Mayor Rule. They are Washington, Oneda and Lawrence-sts. He did not think it likely that a wider program would be given serious consideration.

The streets proposed for paving are now surfaced with creosote blocks, which were laid more than 20 years ago. Washington-st has this surface from N. Appleton to N. Rankin-sts, a distance of nine blocks. Five blocks on Oneda-st, from North to Lawrence-sts, are similarly surfaced and the remaining two blocks are on Lawrence-st from the bridge to S. Oneda-st.

The area measures approximately 20,000 square yards. The city will have to pay for most of the cost, as only about one-fifth of the bill can be assessed against adjoining property holders because of a state law, Mayor Rule explained.

This law, it appears, provides that the maximum charge to property holders for street pavement is $3 a square yard. Residents of the above mentioned streets already have paid about $2.67 a square yard for the creosote blocks. Consequently the difference represents all the additional cost that can be levied by the city.

The type of pavement to be laid on these streets has not yet been determined.

"The creosote blocks have been a source of worry to the city for many years," Mayor Rule said. "Several thousand dollars have been expended annually in recent years to keep these streets in repair," but it was just like throwing money away because we knew that the same work would have to be repeated again and again.

"The trouble is experienced in the fall and spring of the year. Water seeps through the cracks and settles underneath the blocks, then freezes and forces the blocks up and out of place. That is how the bumps and irregularities appear on these streets. The only remedy is the construction of a new type of pavement."

Nothing else is being considered in the paving program just now because of other heavy expenses which the city will have to meet next year, according to Mayor Rule. Chief among these extra "under-the-river" are the intercepting sewer along the river and the subway on Wisconsin-ave. These two jobs alone will cost $70,000 or $80,000, he pointed out.

LEAGUE APPROVES PARIS PEACE PACT

Organization Casts 97 Per Cent Vote Favoring Ratification

A vote preponderantly in favor of ratification by the United States senate of the Kellogg-Briand Paris peace pact has been recorded in a referendum conducted by the national council of the National Economic League, according to George S. Dick, state school supervisor, a member of the league.

Totals received by the league headquarters in Boston are 1,617 for ratification and 45 against. Wisconsin voted 37 for and one against.

The council of the league has 5,000 members in the country, selected "solely with a view to their standing or qualifications as leaders of public opinion." Ballots were mailed Nov. 2 and the above returns had been received up to Nov. 21.

Voting on the question resulted from a discussion by the league on prevention of war. The stated purpose of the league and its referendum is to "create an informed and disinterested leadership for public opinion, a leadership that is free from partisan bias or class interest and that will be accepted as representing the best thought of the country."

Achieving a boyish figure a peril to health for many Men and women injuring themselves by starvation diet

The passing fad of dieting to reduce weight is permanently injuring the health of girls, women and men in the opinion of eminent medical authorities. How dangerously serious dieting has become may be judged from the following statement by a famous doctor. He says: "Many young women to whom motherhood has been denied have come to me to learn the reason why. I have to tell them, only too often, that they have sacrificed their children for the sake of a boyish figure." This doctor goes on to show that many adults, both men and women, do injury to themselves by starvation diets from which they can never recover.

It is time to call a halt in this dangerous practice. Whoever said that two persons could have the same standard of weight? Medical science now declares that standardization in the weight of human beings is impossible, as well as undesirable.

SUPPORT HOOVER'S FARM POLICY

Frank O. Lowden in his first reference to the subject since the presidential election in a letter made public urges the farmers to support President-elect Hoover's proposed farm relief plan. He also believes that the wise course is to await the incoming of the new administration before farm legislation is attempted. Mr. Lowden argues that inasmuch as there was a "perfectly clean-cut issue as to remedies," and the election shows the people preferred Mr. Hoover's proposals to the equalization fee, it is the duty of all to get back of what is in effect a mandate to the new government.

President Thompson of the American Farm Bureau federation reasons much along the same line, recommending to the farmers that they accept in good faith Mr. Hoover's expressed statement that the farm question is the most urgent economic problem of the day, and rely upon his ability to solve it. We think that both Mr. Lowden and Mr. Thompson have taken a right attitude and have given sound advice. There is in truth no other course to take. We particularly like Mr. Lowden's judgment that farm legislation be left to the incoming administration rather than to attempt it at the short session of the closing Coolidge administration.

From all points of view we believe, the best results will be obtained by waiting. There can be no assurance that a measure passed at the present time will be the same as Mr. Hoover would prefer. Nor is it likely that thorough cooperation will be obtained. Not only do we have greater confidence in Mr. Hoover's ability along this particular line, but we believe congress will be more apt to respond to his judgment and recommendations than to those of a president who has twice vetoed its enactments and whose views on the subject do not seem to be entirely specific.

NOT MR. KELLOGG

There will be no Nobel peace prize this year. The obvious recipient, or one of them at least, would be Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg if the prize were to be awarded. Reasons for hesitating may be obscure, but Americans may guess at them.

Mr. Kellogg is the author of a peace treaty which has been signed, but not yet ratified by many nations including his own. It may be the opinion of the judges that a peace prize winner must not only be capable of inventing a plan but must have the political capacities necessary to putting it in effect.

Then there are certain unfortunate offsetting circumstances to Mr. Kellogg's peace work. His young man, Mr. Gibson, was one party to the unfortunate breakup of the stubborn naval conference with Great Britain and Japan, in which both the United States and Great Britain fought for big cruiser navies which would give each an advantage against the other in a theoretical war. This war was entirely too much in the minds of the negotiators. Proposing peace and thinking war at the same time may appeal to the Nobel judges as just about cancelling off.

The last American to obtain the prize was Charles G. Dawes, two years ago. Mr. Dawes' scheme went through, and has been remarkably successful in ridding Europe of the war spirit. If Mr. Kellogg's treaty follows suit, and the British-American ill will engendered by naval competition and stubbornness is broken by an agreement, Nobel prize doubts may possibly be resolved. It is unfortunate, however, that the judges have not seen their way to giving Mr. Kellogg the benefit of the doubt in order to add their obvious approval to the excellent peace scheme he has sponsored. That might help toward its ratification.

KEEPING CRIME SECRET

Dr. Cunliffe, director of the school of journalism at Columbia university, wants divorce news in America limited as in England to publication of the judge's statement of the case, with the names involved.

That would have to be adopted in the United States by separate action of each state. Many states already make proceedings in divorce trials "not privileged"—that is, the judge may rule that they are not for publication and hold the case out of the papers. Under the English system a judge may be as detailed in his statement as he pleases. Few reputable American newspapers would find their news policy noticeably cramped by such a change if it should be thought best. Many editors already severely censor reports of sensational divorce trials, in the interest of decency.

The trouble with Dr. Cunliffe is that he seems to think it advisable to apply this scheme not merely to divorce news but to all news of crime and criminal proceedings—something which the British of course never have tried. Complete evidence may be printed in British hearings before magistrates and in sensational trials before juries. In fact, British newspapers go out of their way to dig up salacious pages of testimony and print them with the slightest abridgement. Very few American newspapers go in for that sort of thing. Most papers single out salient points of evidence and summarize them in news stories, but their decency and the law against obscenity in the mails usually prevail against detailed peddling of smut on the British plan.

Crime is not to be reduced by keeping it a secret or failing to disclose its nature or relegating it to back pages or printing only a judge's summary. Society is entitled to know what perils it is facing, to be informed of police activities in order to aid in the apprehension of criminals, and to follow the procedural steps by which criminals take their medicine or escape justice. The public cannot act intelligently either in making laws or choosing enforcers without information of crimes, criminals, arrests and trials. Dr. Cunliffe proves himself rather a visionary than a practical thinker and a poor inspiration to young journalists, when he argues for such restrictions.

WIVES AS GUARDIANS

In a mid-western city the other day, 10 male citizens appeared in court to report to the judge. It was exactly one year since he had placed them all on probation. Eight of them had been guilty of intoxication. The other two had neglected their wives. Those eight "drunk" cases, all single when they had appeared in court last year, brought eight wives with them this time. The new wives all testified that their husbands hadn't taken a single drink, even on holidays. The other two also appeared with their wives, and the latter proudly testified that their husbands had reformed.

The judge cheerfully suspended the sentences hanging over the heads of those 10 men and sent them away in the custody of their wives. Maybe there is something to the probation business, after all. And maybe there is more to matrimony than some critics have thought in recent years. More to human nature, too—when you get at it right. The big majority of people are naturally decent.

A CLEAN CAMPAIGN

It now appears that the John Doe investigation into alleged violations of the corrupt practices act in the nomination of Walter J. Kohler for governor shows, according to the prosecutor, certain infractions. They are so technical, however, and so trivial that no one will take them seriously. They are not even of sufficient importance to make reference to them editorially. They constitute no reason why Mr. Kohler's right to the governorship should be challenged. All of the evidence shows that it could not be possible to conduct a cleaner and more ethical campaign than that of Mr. Kohler. The essential character of the proceedings against him remain unchanged, as the vengeful work of his political enemies.

An Illinois woman asked a divorce because she couldn't awaken her husband, the combined noise of twelve alarm clocks failing to budge him. At one time or other that man must have been an apartment janitor.

Sir Thomas Lipton says he has remained a bachelor because he could have only one wife if he married, whereas he would want three or four. That should remove any doubts you might have had that Sir Thomas really is a challenger.

The most sensitive part of the body is the tip of the tongue.

POST-TONIC

The Remedy is Worse Than the Malady

GALAHAD JILTME II advisedly asked Harold the Seer, who ain't got no home at all, to spend the night with him. A few days later they were discussing their experiences. Harold has a tendency in huge quantities; Galahad has angularity. The Seer spoke first.

"Say, I didn't sleep all night," he protested. "I never knew a person could have such sharp elbows and knees. When I did doze off for a few minutes I dreamed I was in India, and one of those religious fanatics that sleep on one of those boards with sharp nails pounded through them—you know, the kind you see in pictures sometimes."

"Well," retorted Galahad, "I didn't sleep so well, either."

"Go ahead," interrupted the Seer. "I spoke first—I haven't a chance."

"When I grabbed a few winks," Jiltme continued, "I dreamed of a beautiful African landscape, with a river running through it. I went fishing. There was a small island in the river—a little lighter than battleship gray in color. I paddled out to it. Just after I had dropped a line over the side, the blamed thing began to move!"

I don't think that the cause of Galahad's absence from work is influenza.

"Where?"
"All the way home."

"Was it stuff that looked like flour in a paper bag?"

"Yes."

"Does it get hard after it's been wet?"

"Yes."

"Oh, George! It was just too mean of you to leave that stuff lying around the kitchen. It took me nearly an hour with a hammer and chisel to get a batch of tea biscuit out of the baking tin."

Views Of The News

THIS PROSPERITY

Wired Jordan, chief economist of the National Industrial Conference Board, tells a New York audience that our present prosperity is "rather a state of mind that a fact susceptible of demonstration."

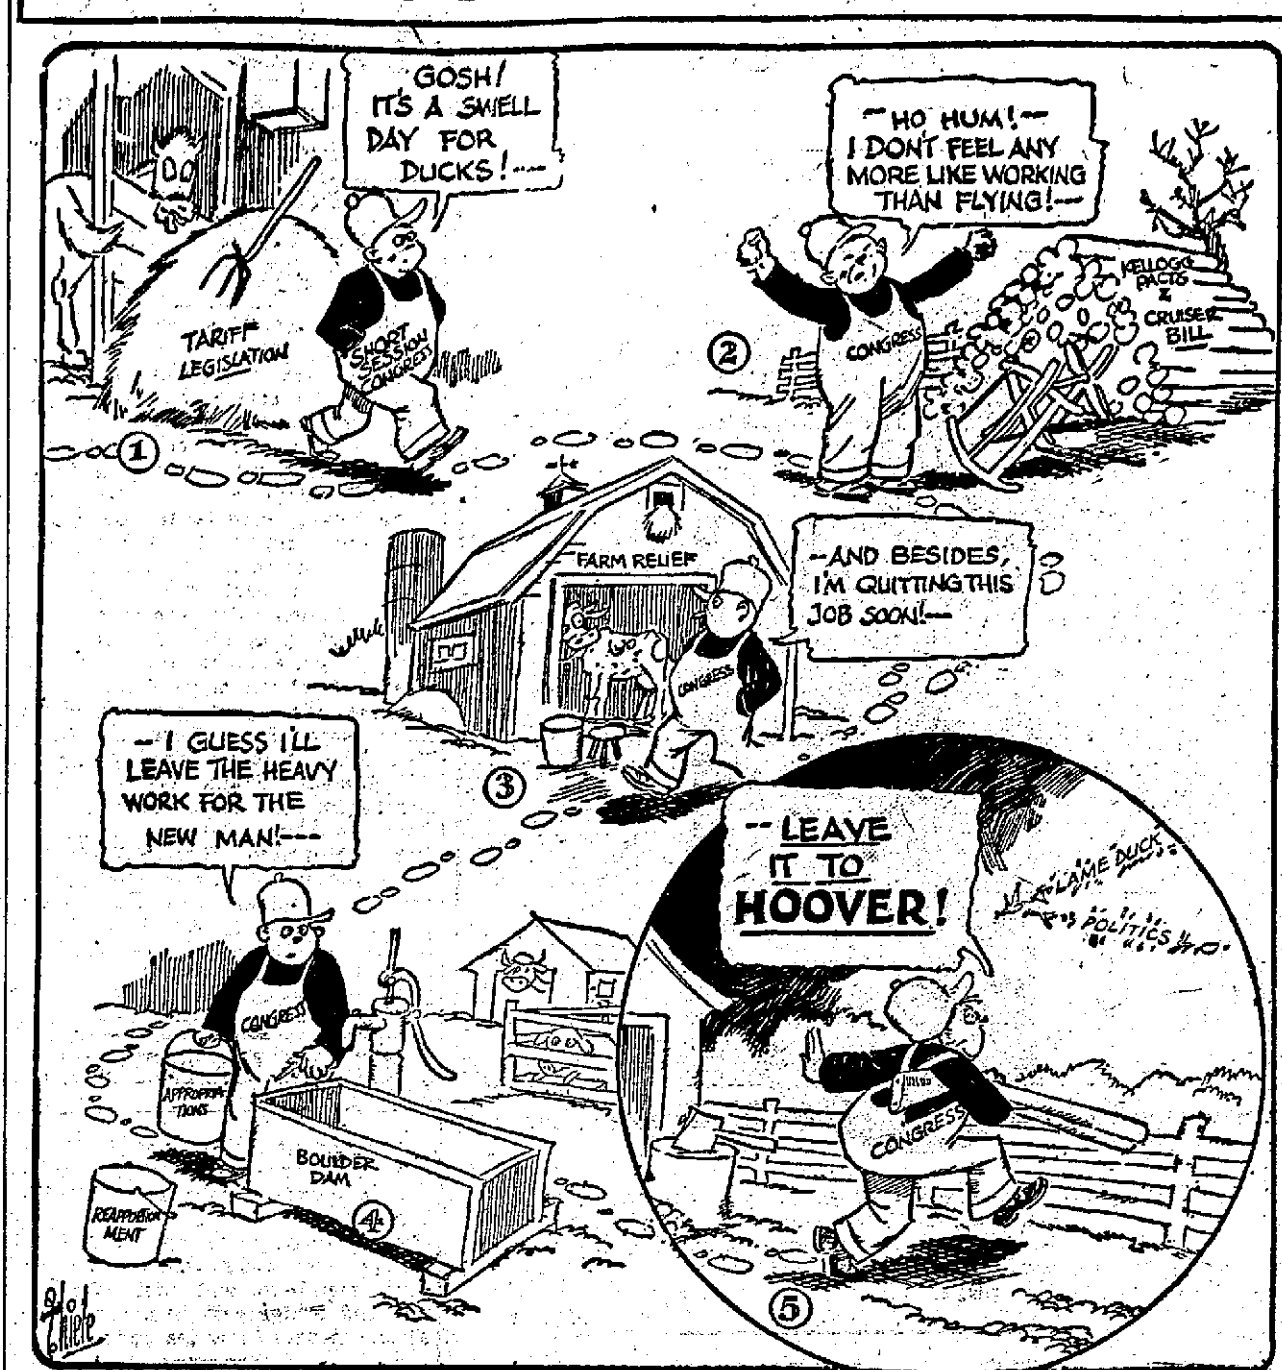

The word prosperity, has had less real and definite meaning this past year than in any year since the war, according to Jordan. It is, for the most part, he says, "an illusion created by extraordinary financial conditions."

There are not exactly pleasant words. There will be plenty of people to disagree with them. Doubtless we shall be able to assay them more wisely when the present astounding stock market boom has run its course. Its climax may reveal to us whether conditions are fundamentally sound or otherwise.

DO THEY SPRAY IT ON OR RUB IT IN?

A news dealer submitted an interesting question the other day. He said his hand usually touches that of the customer when he receives money for a paper or magazine. He remarked that some doctors say 16 diseases can be carried by handshaking or contact of the hands; and he wondered whether he might contract any definite disease in this way.

It is reasonable enough to assume that certain diseases may be conveyed thru such contact of the hands. I think of scabies at once, the old-fashioned "seven year" itch. Then I think of ringworm, next of common pus germ infections such as are ordinarily responsible for boils, festing of slight wounds and sometimes acute blood poisoning (septicemia); and finally I think of the familiar epidemic eruptive diseases such as smallpox, scarlet fever, measles, the I have considerable doubt about these last mentioned diseases—that is, I believe they rarely "ever spread" by contact, but only thru the nose and throat discharges.

I advised the news man that a habit of washing the hands frequently thru the working day, and the development of a conscience about bringing hand or fingers to nose or mouth, would insure safety against any infection likely to be contracted thru such contact of hands. But I realized too late that I had not given the man a fair answer, and I hope he may notice this item now. I should have directed his attention to the real risk involved in his work, as well as minimizing the significance of the risk he asked about.

Anyone whose occupation involves conversation with many persons in the day necessarily risks ordinary spray infection, give and take, if the adversaries in this spraying duel approach within five feet of each other. This applies for intelligent, polite people generally. Unfortunately not all the people one may do business with are intelligent or polite, and therefore one must add the risk of being pinked by an occasional boor from a distance of eight or ten feet; that happens when the ignorant or impolite customer sneezes or coughs with uncovered mug; if the nuisance happens to have cri. For the benefit of such persons I may explain that cri is in any form of respiratory infection, any thing a boor or nuisance would call a "cold."

Of course the person on one side of the desk, grill, table or counter is as likely to give or take respiratory infection in the conversational spray as the person on the other side. It is a fifty-fifty proposition. Neither health or hygiene intelligence nor sanitary conscience is confined to any class. Plenty of folk who know no better virtuously spit in one's face and so pass along respiratory infection of one kind or another. On the other hand, plenty of folk who know perfectly well that they have or are coming down with cri have an easy conscience and unhesitatingly conceal the fact or misrepresent their condition in order to remain at play or at work, literally peppering every unfortunate who happens to approach them. Of the two classes the latter seems to me far more contemptible and culpable, tho also, their educated criminals have strong moral support from our old foggy public health authorities, who still persist in teaching that some vague "colds" are not communicable.

Swallow the Seeds
Please tell me whether it is harmful to swallow the seeds when eating grapes. (J. E. P.)
Answer.—It is advisable to swallow them with the grapes, unless your physician for particular reason cautions you not to do so.

Boric Acid
Please tell me is boric acid good treatment for the eyes. (Mrs. S. D. B.)
Answer.—The eyes normally require no treatment. If there is something "the matter with the eyes," better have medical advice. Boric acid, say a teaspoonful dissolved in a pint of boiled water, makes a comparatively harmless antiseptic lotion for the eyes, but it has no remedial virtues aside from the antiseptic uses. It is foolish to use an antiseptic except when dealing with infection. For ordinary bathing of the eyes, if you feel that such care is necessary, better use simple salt solution about the same salt strength as the tears, and that is a rounded teaspoonful of common table salt in the pint of boiled water.

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

Washington.—Important political events of November 6 last were pointedly ignored when the seventh congress got going a in, unquestionably they played a leading part in the hubbub of informal conversation that marked the opening in both senate and house. Just before long and Smith, like Hefin of Alabama and Simmons of North Carolina could refrain from pointing a political nail at their democratic colleagues in the senate there was no way of telling. Adventures In The Library

By Arnold Mulder

$25,000 WORTH OF POOR STUFF

Katherine Holland Brown was awarded a prize of $25,000 by a woman's magazine and a publishing company for her novel, "The Father." It may be that the material submitted in the contest was so poor that the judges were forced to award the prize to a very mediocre book. In any event, this novel is even more disappointing than is usually the case with books that win prizes.

The magazine and publisher perhaps know what they want, and it is not unlikely that they will get their money out of the venture. Tell people that a book has won a very large prize and they are likely to buy it by the carload. They reason that it must be good or a publisher and magazine wouldn't have paid so much money for it, forgetting that such a prize contest is usually merely an advertising scheme, not a search for the best manuscript available.

"The Father" is one more "Lincoln" story. That is not against it, but it seems to me that it is a poor "Lincoln" story. The character of Lincoln himself is even less convincing than it usually is in novels. Instead of being the baffling mixture of mystic and extravert that all the more discerning studies of his character seem to agree he was in real life, he comes very near to being merely a boob in this prize novel. Kind and generous and fantastically altruistic, of course, but you would never guess that he had elements of genuine greatness in him if the author had presented him under another name and had not told you again and again that he was great and sublime. Lincoln, the obscure lawyer of the fifties, is outrageously sentimentalized.

The rest of the characters are of a piece. The book is the story of a New England family of abolitionists who move to Illinois to battle there for the freedom of the slaves. The father starts a little paper and becomes the intimate friend of Lincoln. His daughter worships both her father and Lincoln and falls in love with a driver in the "underground railroad." There is an aunt and a number of small brothers and sisters and several other characters. But the father and the daughter take up most of the space of the book.

Most of it is highly sentimental, without any gleam of that penetration that makes the portrayal of character in a novel worth while. We get no new conception of what a father may mean to a daughter or a daughter to a father—in spite of the fact that the publishers claim we will. It is all the kind of thing that many writers seem to think the readers of a woman's magazine will want.

Then toward the end it degenerates into cheap movie stuff. The girl's lover, as a matter of course is accused of murder for the sole purpose of giving Lincoln a chance to defend him. He has engaged in flat combat with the villain who has attacked the girl—all in the approved style so nauseatingly familiar to movie fans. He hasn't quite killed the brute but nearly so. Later the victim is found dead in the creek and the lover is arrested. He has spent the night, alone with the girl in her home except for a desperately sick little brother, helping her to save his life. But he is so fantastically chivalrous that he refuses to let Lincoln, his lawyer, refer to that in the trial, declaring he will go to the gallows rather than give his name dragged in. It is completely ridiculous and almost comic. For good measure there is a fantastic ride of the girl at midnight to Springfield to engage Lincoln as his lawyer even though there was nothing to be gained by risking her life as her lover was safe in jail and would stay there till morning in due. But it will make good movie stuff.

The book is a manufactured concoction, not fiction that commands respect. Apparently that is what publishers want from prize contests. Usually you will not miss much by refusing to read a prize novel.

Nanette started in musical comedies and made her debut with the Metropolitan in New York at the age of 18.

VESPER SERVICE IS CALLED OFF

Because of the illness of the contralto soloist, Miss Dora Edlin, and weakening of the chorus choir by the absence of Lawrence college students, the vesper program which was scheduled for Sunday afternoon at the Methodist church has been called off. The Christmas cantata, "The Word Made Flesh," was to have been given by the church chorists, an assisted by several soloists.

The fireside Fellowship group meeting planned for Sunday evening also has been postponed.

MOVIE REPLACES MUSIC PROGRAM

Owing to the illness of a number of those who were to appear in the Christmas musical program at the Congregational church Sunday evening, the performance has been postponed, according to Dr. H. E. Peabody, pastor of the church. Instead, a movie, "Harp in Hock," will be presented and a short sermon will be delivered by Dr. Peabody.

The Christmas tea which was to have been given by the Catholic Daughters of America Monday evening at 6 o'clock at Hotel Northern has been postponed. The members of the committee in charge have postponed the tea to conform with the precedents established by other organizations in order to prevent the spread of the cold epidemic.

Hansen, king; W. M. Russel, scribe; W. D. Acherman, treasurer; J. H. Melnikov, trustee. The election of the secretary was postponed to the next meeting which will be held in two weeks.

DRAMATIC CLUB POSTPONES PLAY

In keeping with the postponement of all activities which tend to bring people into crowds, the play which was to have been given Sunday afternoon by the vocational school girls' dramatic club has been postponed until a later date. According to Miss Elmer Strickland of the Appleton Woman's club, the performance, "One Night in Bethlehem," will be given after the first of the year, but as yet no definite date has been set.

POSTAL OFFICIALS PREPARE FOR RUSH OF HOLIDAY TRADE

Many Additional Trucks and Clerks to Augment Regular Service

Preparations are being made this week to take care of the deluge of Christmas mail which is expected to swamp the Appleton postoffice during the interval between now and Christmas day.

This week one additional parcel post truck was placed on duty and three extra sub-clerks were added to the regular clerical force to take care of the rush of business done at the service windows.

On Monday of next week seven additional trucks and men will be added to the parcel post delivery division and these will be kept busy, each on a separate route, until Christmas day.

The basement of the postoffice will again be pressed into service this year for handling all parcel post matter. A special chute will be built in one of the basement post matters will be sent into the basement where it will be divided into compartments, each section of which will be assigned to one of the parcel post trucks. In this manner it is expected that parcel post delivery will be facilitated and will enable postal officials to guarantee prompt deliveries.

While there will be no immediate sudden increase of the clerical force in the post office proper the staff will be augmented, as the Christmas business grows, until 12 additional men are at work. It is expected that this number will be able to easily handle the rush of patrons.

City mail carriers will not be assigned a man to help them carry parcels, as is done in other cities, because all parcels, except those sent first class, are delivered by trucks.

With these plans for handling the local incoming and outgoing mail F. F. Wetengel, acting postmaster, again urges local patrons to be considerate of the mailmen and to shop and mail early.

He pointed out that there will be no deliveries of any kind on Christmas day because all operations at the post office will be stopped from 12 o'clock Christmas eve until 12 o'clock the next day. This suspension of service is made on orders of the federal postal department which felt that the mailmen deserve to be able to spend Christmas at their homes.

Only special delivery mail will be handled on Christmas day, Mr. Wetengel said.

PICK THREE FOREST RESERVES IN STATE

Promptness of Purchase Depends Upon Terms Offered by Owners

Washington, D. C.—The national forest reservation commission Thursday informed Congressmen George J. Schneider of Wisconsin it has selected three forest areas in Wisconsin. Whether the purchase of lands begins this year depends upon the terms made by the owners, the commission said.

The three Wisconsin national forest reservations will be known as Oneida, Flambeau and Mognah.

The Oneida reservation covers 28,380 acres in Vilas county, 17,280 acres in Oneida county and 175,029 acres in Forest county.

The Flambeau reservation is entirely in Price county and contains 145,000 acres, and the Mognah reservation, lying entirely in Bayfield county, contains 112,000 acres.

The land must be bought piecemeal as favorable terms can be made, the commission informed Congressmen Schneider.

An appropriation of $1,800,000 is carried by the budget bureau for the purchase of land during the coming year. The house agriculture committee has been asked to raise this to $3,000,000. The committee announced that it would report the bill tomorrow holding the appropriation to the budget estimate.

LOCAL WOMAN ATTENDS MEET OF EMERICK HEIRS

Mrs. Hattie B. Hayton, 202 N. Union-st., daughter of Mrs. Christina Campbell, one of the plaintiffs in the recent suit brought by descendants of John Nicholas Emerick for two-thirds of the $750,000 estate of John Jacob Astor, attended the conference of Emerick heirs at Chicago early this week. Their suit had been dismissed and at the conference it was decided to appeal the case.

The heirs claim that John Nicholas Emerick, fur trader and partner of the original John Jacob Astor, left his estate in $2-year trust with Astor. They based their suit on two documents, both found after years of search in the home of Mrs. Nancy Rose Emerick at Eau Claire. One of these documents purports to show that the elder Emerick willed that his estate be left to the children of his sons. Mrs. Carnahan claims to be a direct descendant of one of Emerick's brothers.

RAZZBERRIES FOR FRENCH PARLIAMENT

By NEA Service

Paris — The best of grammar isn't used in the best of circles and Paul Lombard, humorist and lover of good French, is urging French parents to keep their offspring from attending sessions of Parliament. He claims that group of political leaders mix their metaphors. He has cited some of the verbal blunders of this law-making body.

Here they are:

"You wish to regulate death. Try it. You will see what she will do to you."

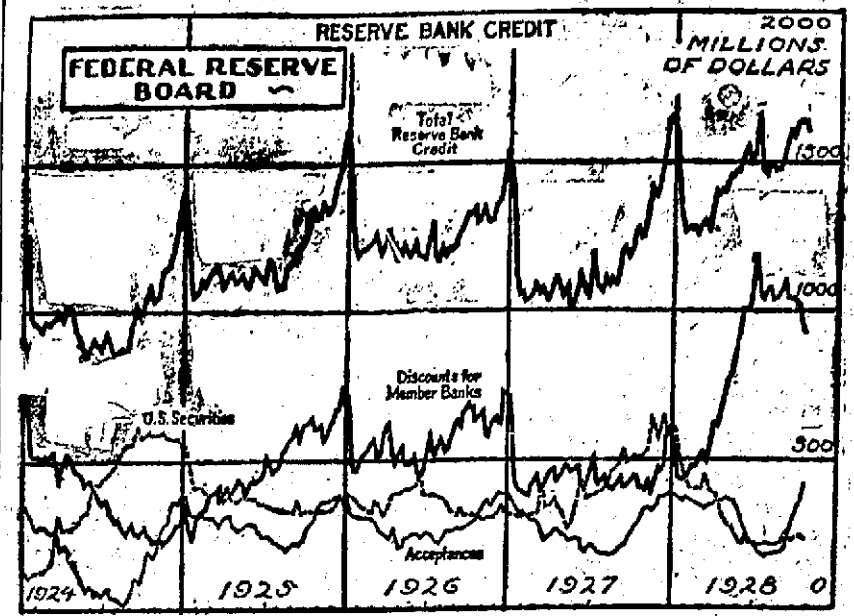

"We will not compress young brains as soon as they begin to walk."

"I thank you, Mr. Minister, you have heard me with a friendly eye."

"You bind their arms so tightly they no longer know on which foot to dance."

"I have consulted him. He has answered me affirmatively. No."

Federal Reserve Helps Money Mart Conditions

The chart, prepared by the Federal Reserve board shows the trends in the money market over the past five years. It is based on weekly averages of daily figures.

Washington (AP)—Sudden cessation of the flood of warnings against credit over-inflation and of much of the worry over the credit situation attending the enormous increases in stock trading during the past few months appears to have been due, in part at least, to purchase of acceptances by Federal Reserve banks.

Funds thus released by the purchase since September of more than $200,000,000 in acceptance in the open market met the autumn demand for currency and reserve credit and enabled member banks to reduce their indebtedness to the Federal Reserve, discounts in October falling below the $1,000,000,000 level for the first since June.

Conditions in the money market have become somewhat easier as a result, the board says, notwithstanding recent increases in the outstanding volume of member bank credit.

The increase in Federal Reserve holdings is larger than usual. This autumn, it was said, the higher loans for commercial purposes in level of money rates encouraging bill dealers to reduce their port-

AUTOMOBILE STOLEN AT MENASHA THURSDAY

A Ford sedan was stolen at Menasha Thursday evening, according to word received at the Appleton police department. The car had the license number B-195666 and the motor number, 13460285. It was equipped with All-State tires and there was a dent in the left rear fender.

NEIGHBORS HELP MAN BUILD MACHINE SHED

A large crowd of neighbors and friends gathered at the farm of Edward Priem, town of Grand Chute, Thursday and assisted in shingling the roof of a new machine shed. The shed was erected at a building last week when the same group gathered and helped build the structure. The new shed is about 60 feet long and 24 feet wide.

folios. Another factor has been the sale of dollar acceptances in the American market by foreign central banks.

The board suggests that the earlier tightness of the credit situation was due to the fact that member banks met in 16 months a demand for nearly $500,000,000 of gold for export and were forced to make up this loss of reserves by additional borrowing. This was augmented by continued sale of United States securities by reserve banks.

While a larger part of the growth of credit demand has been for loans on securities, the total increasing $700,000,000 between August 22 and the end of October, loans for commercial purposes in October reached the highest level in eight years.

STATE'S ANNUAL GOOD WILL TOUR RESEMBLES FIRST

Exhibits Will Stress Agriculture, Industrial, and Recreation

Madison—(P)—Wisconsin's second annual good will o. advertising tour will closely resemble the first one. It was indicated at the final organizational meeting of the our committee in Madison Thursday.

Agricultural, industrial and recreational features will be stressed in exhibits and the "sales talks," of the train occupants.

Lee I. Yorkson, secretary of the Wisconsin chamber of commerce, who was elected manager of the 1929 tour, has called a conference of railroad representatives in Wausau next week to take up tariffs, charges for tickets, and other matters pertinent to the operation of the train. After this conference he and his advisory committee will settle finally on the route of the trips.

The tentative routing, drawn up before the meeting Thursday, by George Dobbins, Fremont and Karl S. Reynolds, Sturgeon Bay, original proponents of the second trip, calls for the start from Madison as the 1928 train did, some time in February, probably the twenty-second. The starting point may be changed, however.

The train, under the tentative schedule would then stop in these cities: Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Lexington, Ky., Knoxville, Tenn., Chattanooga, Atlanta, Macon, Ga., Way Cross, Ga., Jacksonville, Fla., Savannah, Charleston, Raleigh, Richmond, Va., Washington, D. C., at the time of the inauguration of President Hoover, Baltimore, Westing, Va., Zanesville, O., Columbus, Ft. Wayne and Chicago, returning then to Madison.

The trip may be reversed, so that the inauguration stop will be made in the early stages of it, but it was settled that the tour shall include the south-eastern part of the country and, as many of these cities or others in the territory, as possible.

Railroads already have signified their willingness to stand the expense of the advance circular which will give details of the trip, a reservation blank, pictures from some of the cities, and the arrival and departure schedule for each city.

Mr. Yorkson was instructed to take up at once with manufacturers, county representatives and others the degree in which they wish to participate, so that the great number of applicants for space in the exhibit cars can be "figured down," to the space available.

Among those attending the final organizational meeting were C. A. Beggs, Rice Lake assemblyman, who was secretary-manager for the 1928 tour, Mrs. Reynolds and Dobbins, Walter Rhamlow, secretary for the Wisconsin Horticultural society; W. P. Jones, representing the state department of markets; Anton Jansen, Mayor of Little Chute, Wis.; Mr. Yorkson; H. R. Burr, secretary of the Wisconsin Cannery association; Henry Ellenbecker, assemblyman from Wausau; and member of the legislative tour committee last February.

They Like Fox River Valley

Col. L. H. Britton (left) and Charles Holman, respective vice president and operating manager of Northwest Airways, were photographed just after they completed an inspection of the Fox River valley for the purpose of determining whether it would be a feasible route for an air mail line. The smiles on their faces indicated they were pleased with the prospect. Both men will come to Appleton Saturday with the first mail planes at the opening of the air mail route.

REPRESENTS STATE AT SANITARY MEET

Madison—(P)—Louis F. Warrick, state sanitary engineer, represented the state health department in an interstate conference Dec. 11 and 12 at Gary, Ind., looking to the eventual elimination of pollution from the Great Lakes.

Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York were represented. The conference, after discussing cooperation, studies of the situation, and electing Mr. Warrick secretary, adopted a report that will be sent to all the state boards of health.

January, O. R. Smith, Wisconsin Tourist bureau, Milwaukee; John Hant-schell and Allan A. Tripp of Oshkosh, representing the county board organization meeting were C. A. Beggs, Rice Lake assemblyman, who was secretary-manager for the 1928 tour, Mrs. Reynolds and Dobbins, Walter Rhamlow, secretary for the Wisconsin Horticultural society; W. P. Jones, representing the state department of markets; Anton Jansen, Mayor of Little Chute, Wis.; Mr. Yorkson; H. R. Burr, secretary of the Wisconsin Cannery association; Henry Ellenbecker, assemblyman from Wausau; and member of the legislative tour committee last February.

SPEAKING CLASS LISTENS TO DEBATE

Value of Direct Primary Is Discussed by High School Students

The second debate on the high school schedule was held before the class in public speaking at the school Thursday morning. Because of the danger of infection, the debate was not held before the entire school assembly as is usually the case.

The affirmative side was upheld by Jacob Siglinsky and William Rohr of Manitowoc, and the negative by Miss Florence Hamm and Lawrence Oosterhaus of Appleton. Outstanding characteristics of the debate, which argued the question of the value of the direct primary method of electing representatives to Congress, United States senators and state officers, were the polished delivery of the Manitowoc team and the thorough preparation of their case by the Appleton debaters.

The second series of debates on the same question will be held the first part of January, when the Appleton negative team will go to Marinette, and the Oshkosh negative will debate in Appleton.

Regular business matters also were discussed.

FARMERS AROUSED AS THIEVES RAID POULTRY HOUSES

Chicken thieves have again started their raids on the hen coops in this vicinity and almost every day Sheriff Otto Zuehlke is receiving reports from farmers who have lost hens, ducks, geese or turkeys to the raiders. Wednesday night the vandals broke in a coop on the Roland Jack farm on Highway 26 near Hortonville and stole 25 valuable Rhode Island Red chickens with single combs. Sheriff Zuehlke said he had a clew to the thieves and that he is conducting an investigation. The thieves are active now, just before the Christmas holidays, as they were last month for about a week before Thanksgiving day.

AUDITORS INSPECT ASSOCIATION BOOKS

Auditors have started the annual inspection of the Appleton Building and Loan association books, according to George Beckley, secretary. The work will probably continue for several days.

STAGE And SCREEN

"THE MICHIGAN KID"

Universal has brought Rex Beach's novel, "The Michigan Kid" to the screen at Fischer's Appleton Theatre Saturday and Sunday in a pretentious special which is at once gorgeous in scenic beauty and gripping in dramatic power.

The photoplay is a massive production with two of the screen's most popular stars enacting the tremendous emotional roles, Conrad Nagel and Renee Adoree.

Nagel has never appeared to better advantage than as the famous Michigan Kid, notorious honest gambler in Alaska during the mighty gold rush of 1898.

This characterization is one of the sweeping verve—the Kid being the type that is a Hell-cat gone mad when he has just cause for his wrath, but who otherwise is gentle and loving towards his friends and much addicted to charity in the right place.

Miss Adoree gives a sincere portrayal of the girl from the States who comes to Alaska for the purpose of marrying a boyhood sweetheart who has become a rotter. The story carries the audience through the exciting days of the gold rush—through dance halls, gambling dens, the beat from the States, over Chilkoot Pass to the mines in the Interior and back down a raging mountain stream by canoe through a forest-devouring holocaust.

The picture is sensational in every way and is easily the best ever filmed around the Alaskan locale. The entire forest fire sequence is done in natural colors which adds materially to the menace of the flames and incidentally shows a river flowing down it and a fire ravaging its natural splendor. This is easily one of the most impressive sequences in the season's photoplay offerings.

"DANCING VIENNA"

The international star Lya Mara, has quickly become recognized as one of the great favorites among film actresses throughout Europe and has gained a large following in America. Her latest success "Dancing Vienna," made by First National-DeMuy, will be seen at the Elite theatre for 3 days starting today with our own Ben Lyon costarred with her coming to this town.

"Dancing Vienna" is a delightful romance in which the clash of modern jazz and the old-time waltz form the main theme. Lya Mara was selected as the most suitable actress to typify the Viennese sentiment of the waltz while Ben Lyon typifies the modern jazz.

In "Dancing Vienna" she is said to be irresistible not only in the Viennese waltz but also in the international metamorphosis shown in the dancing revue scenes included in the picture. Whether it be in the waltz, gavotte, can-can or the jazz, she appears to be equally at home and gives an excellent performance.

Ben Lyon has a fine part as the young American who falls in love with her and is said to succeed admirably in every scene.

Distance and time has been annihilated and New York is so close to us that a letter mailed here in the afternoon will be delivered in the great metropolis the following morning. At least two days will be cut off from the time required to send a letter to New York and receive an answer.

Appleton is proud of the fact that the United States Government city can be counted upon by wide use of Airmail for business.

A great aerial highway soon is to follow the airmail into Appleton. Already the department of commerce of the federal government is laying its plans for establishing a system of aerial beacons to guide flyers at night and in another year planes by the hundreds will follow this highway of the air into Appleton and to the northern part of the state.

Business will follow the airmail just as years ago it followed the railroad. Fortunate indeed was the city that won a place on the pioneer railroads of America and just as fortunate is the city on the pioneer airmail routes.

FIRST PLANE MAY STAY IN ENGLAND, WRIGHT INDICATES

No Hope Is Seen for Return of Machine to This Country for Anniversary

(EDITOR'S NOTE—On December 17, 1903, on the sands of Kitty Hawk, N. C., Orville and Wilbur Wright, Dayton, O., flew through the air in their man-made machine. The attention of the world has been focused on the approaching quarter century mark of that epochal event in human progress, and on the surviving co-inventor, Orville Wright. Mr. Wright has revealed the status of the Kitty Hawk plane in an interview with The Associated Press aviation editor.)

BY W. E. BERCHTOLD

Dayton, O.—(AP)—Orville Wright, co-inventor of the airplane which he flew to Kitty Hawk, N. C., December 17, 1903, says he believes the original Wright plane has gone to England never to return to American soil.

The inventor, who sent the plane to the Kensington Museum of London for exhibition when the Smithsonian Institution's controversy over the priority of the Wright and Langley flights reached its height, sees no hope for the return of the historic plane as the twenty-fifth anniversary of the flight nears.

"The Kitty Hawk plane will not be brought back to this country unless the controversy over our claim to the development of the first heavier-than-air machine, capable of flight is definitely settled during my life time," he says.

"If the controversy is not favorably settled before my death, I plan to make definite arrangements that will make impossible the return of our Kitty Hawk plane to this country at some late time."

"There is a technical problem at the seat of this controversy and it will be possibly only for technical men to decide it. Airplane builders, not theoretical scientists, but men who have actually built airplanes and are willing to stake their reputations on any decision they would make, should constitute the group entrusted with the problem involved in this controversy."

"I am confident that any such group of half a dozen technical men would examine the Langley plane and agree that it could not have been flown without radical changes, based on technical data unknown to us at that time."

"Of course, I hated to send the Kitty Hawk plane away from our own country, but I felt that it was the only method by which the controversy would be brought squarely up to officials concerned, and cause a possible readjustment. I should, personally, like to see the plane deposited in the national museum, but honestly feel that it has gone abroad to stay."

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the first Wright flight is to be observed this year. Mr. Wright and Charles A. Lindbergh were appointed by President Coolidge on a committee to represent the United States at the International Conference on Civil Aeronautics in Washington, December 12, 13 and 14, during which the delegates will make a special pilgrimage to Kitty Hawk to take part in the laying of a cornerstone to a monument to be erected by the government in recognition of the Wrights' work.

STANDARDIZING FORMS RESULT IN BIG SAVING

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Savings of thousands of dollars through simplification of commercial forms have been reported to the division of simplified practice, department of commerce, by some of the many corporations who have put into practice the division's recommendations.

A $50,000 reduction in cost of stationery was made by the Great Northern railroad after an 18-month study of the 3,689 forms used by the company made possible standardization of sizes, reduction of varieties, elimination of obsolete forms, consolidation of those which were practically duplicates. The Western Maryland railroad reported that by standardizing stationery, printing and office supplies the annual cost was cut to $65,000 from $110,000.

In one store it was found that the different sizes of marking tags could advantageously be reduced to 17. The Dayton, O., chamber of commerce found that the 13 different styles of letterheads and 12 sizes of envelopes its departments were using could be reduced to one form letterhead and two sizes of envelopes, with a saving estimated at $500 for six months alone.

Consolidation and simplification of documentary forms is under way in the departments of the federal government, the Pan-American republics and state governments, the division reports, with resulting savings in cost, time and confusion.

George Bernard Shaw says the time is coming when the world will not use coal. He's been talking to the janitor.

Original Wright Plane and Inventor

The original Wright airplane will remain in England permanently unless the controversy over its claim to be the first heavier-than-air machine capable of flight is settled in its favor, says Orville Wright (inset), co-inventor with his brother, the late Wilbur Wright. The Wright claim is contested on behalf of the Langley machine. Orville Wright and his 1908 model airplane are shown above, and below is a photograph of the first human flight with a power-driven flying machine, in 1903. Orville is flying the plane, Wilbur running on the ground.

How To Play Bridge

BY Milton C. Work

The popularity of Contract Bridge has increased amazingly during the current season in almost every section of the country. It took two years for the Contract boom to get going at full speed because Contract does not appeal to the Auction player when it is first suggested to him, the way Auction appealed to players of old-fashioned Bridge.

Auction swept the country in short order, but Contract encountered objections from all sides. Auction players did not welcome it; at the start they generally declined to give it a trial. It does not require many trials, however, to prove that Contract (although the play is exactly the same) has charms of its own in the bidding; that it has skill and thrill that Auction Bridge does not possess; and few players willingly turn to Auction Bridge after giving Contract a thorough trial. Each week more players try Contract and become devotees of the new game.

One of the manifest objections to Contract is the uncertainty as to the soundest methods of bidding. This is only natural when we remember that the much simpler bidding in Auction Bridge was not generally conventionalized until after the game had been popular for many years; and it will be a long time before there will be such agreement on Contract bidding as exists today on the bidding of the older game.

Contract adapts itself to so many different schemes of bidding that experts have widely different ideas concerning it; and not until the various Contract ideas have been tested by the public will any be universally recognized as conventional.

At present Contract players may be divided into two schools; one which considers trying for slams to be the most important feature in the bidding, and the other which considers the slam bidding to be merely an incident that turns up after the best contract for the combined hands has been determined upon, and that treats as the paramount features the determination of which declaration will be the best for the combined hands and whether a game bid should be made in it. This subject will be continued tomorrow. (Copyright, John F. Dille Co.)

EXPORT ASSOCIATIONS INCREASE IN NUMBERS

Washington.—(AP)—More than 50 export associations have filed organization papers under the Webb-Pomerene law and are actively engaged in developing the exports of 40 different industries produced in more than 1,000 plants.

The department of commerce estimates association export trade last year at more than $300,000,000. Increases were reported, notably in copper during the first half of 1928.

Six new associations recently were formed to engage in the exporting of soft wheat, rice, sardines, fruit and steel, their membership representing about 100 companies.

Under the Webb-Pomerene law export associations benefit not only through exemption from the Sherman anti-trust law, but through economy of reduced sales expenses, standardization of material, uniformity of methods in packing and shipping and centralization of inquiries, orders and agencies.

Pinnacle Of Film Fame

Sharp, Uncomfortable

By WADE WERNER

Hollywood, Cal.—(AP)—The pinnacle of film fame is sharp pointed. Seals farther down the slope of popularity are far more comfortable.

That is the philosophy of Francis X. Bushman, who a dozen years ago achieved super-stardom, later sank into comparative obscurity, and then, hardly two years ago, began a "comeback" that may yet reestablish him among the big box office names of the industry.

Having been at the very top before, Bushman has no particular desire to return. "It was flattering once," muses the screen idol of yesterday, "to have the chief of police of a city like Chicago request me not to walk home from my studio because I was creating traffic jams. But after a while I came to long for a few days of peace in some movieless town where nobody knew me."

"Of course when all this popularity seemed to vanish overnight I felt for a time the bitterness of learning that film fans are fickle. But later I came to realize how much I had been missing in the days of my greatest success. I can walk down the boulevard now as carefree as you please, and though someone may say 'There goes Francis X. Bushman,' it won't interfere with my walk. No police reserves have to be called out. And when I want to travel, I just travel. My enjoyment isn't spoiled by over-attention from crowds."

Travel, by the way, is Bushman's chief diversion. He "disappeared" from Hollywood several months ago, and there were several pieces in the paper about it at the time, although anyone who knew him well knew he was just off on another trip—this time to Japan.

Books and travel folders about India are consuming much of his spare time now. So about Christmas time, or whenever his next picture is finished, Francis X. Bushman is pretty sure to disappear again, and those who know him will be pretty sure where he has gone.

There are now 65 active volcanoes. The number will be reduced when Charley Dawes leaves the senate.

"You Know The Place"

U. S. IS WORLD'S GREATEST SUMMER RESORT PROPRIETOR

Approximately 3,000,000
People Visit National Parks Annually

Washington — Uncle Sam stands revealed in the annual report of the secretary of the interior as the largest summer resort proprietor in the world.

Uncle Sam's summer resorts are the vast national parks, where free public camping grounds are maintained for motorists and hikers. Approximately 3,000,000 people visit the national parks annually, and 70 per cent of them go in their own automobiles. It is this fact which has made the public camp sites necessary. Until the development of the auto, the railroads brought all the visitors, and they were lodged in hotels, lodges, etc., conducted inside the parks by concessionaries.

Now, however, the camping spaces are highly important, and they have been made rather elaborate. Pure water, sanitary conveniences, electric lights, stoves, and sometimes laundries and shower baths are included in their equipment.

The automobile is not the only invention that has raised a new problem for the custodians of the parks. The airplane now is raising a new issue, which will be dealt with in considerable detail at a conference this winter between national park officials, railway heads, motor transportation concerns and others.

"The modern airplane, with its increasing use as a means of passenger transportation, now presents a new problem," says the secretary's report. "Its employment has been urged upon park officials for a number of years, but as yet no permits have been issued for landing fields within park boundaries, and flying over the parks has been discouraged. Admission of airplanes to national parks and regulation of their use, however, have been receiving the serious consideration of the department."

"Manifestly, the airplane will become an accepted means of transportation to and between national parks, if not in the parks. Their use then will make it necessary for the service to provide them facilities and to regulate them. The department has considered that the railroads, which in early times made the development of the parks possible, first should be heard in this connection. It has been proposed that they be permitted to build airports within the park lines near railroad terminals and to land passengers in the park at those airports, granting to private airplanes the use of such airports with a proper service charge."

Nor is that the only problem the airplane has raised. There is also the matter of sight-seeing within the parks. Originally tourists went through the parks on foot, on horseback or in horse-drawn stages. In recent years the automobile bus has been adopted, although the use of the horseback trails is still popular. Now various concerns are proposing to establish aerial sight-seeing trips over the parks.

The department, evidently, does not know quite what to do about this matter. On the one hand, it asserts that a plane flying at a safely high altitude would be too high for its occupants to get a proper view of the scenery below and, on the other, it admits that some people insist that only from the air can a view be obtained of generally inaccessible places.

The whole thing will be threshed out at the conference this winter. It is probable that some sort of airplane route between the national parks, under the control of the National Park Service, will be recommended, with airports established within the parks and under park supervision. For the rest, a definite and rational air policy will be sought in an interchange of views from the parties most directly interested.

LEAGUE CALLS MEETING TO BAN COUNTERFEITING

Geneva — (AP) — The League of Nations has issued invitations for an international conference against counterfeiting. It will begin at Geneva on April 9, next year, and give the final touches to a draft convention which has already been framed by experts, including Americans.

All governments have been asked to empower their delegates to sign the convention, once it has been adopted.

Already there exists close collaboration between the police forces of the nations to run down international criminals.

HIGHER LEVEL OF LAKE JUSTIFIED, ENGINEER HOLDS

More Water Is Necessary of Navigation and Power Purposes, He Says

The water level of Lake Winnebago is exceptionally high now and is causing some damage to riparians on the west and south sides of the lake but the plan of federal authorities to increase the level from 15 to 21 1/2 inches above the crest of the Menasha dam is justified, according to A. F. Everett, government engineer. Definite steps should be taken soon to change the situation so that the necessary amount of water for navigation and power purposes on the lower Fox river may be insured, he said.

The result of the high water level on the lake is not noticeable here until dam tenders on the upper river start sluicing, when the current on the lower river becomes so swift that navigation is impossible, according to Mr. Everett.

A high level last Saturday and Sunday combined with a strong wind, flooded the highway along the south shore of the lake and by Monday the pavement was covered with ice, making automobile travel dangerous, people on the south shore of the lake reported. Action is being taken at Oshkosh and Fond du Lac to prevent federal authorities from increasing the level as proposed.

The board of public works at Oshkosh has donated $100 to the Association for the Relief of High Water to send Attorney George Williams and Allan Tripp of Oshkosh to Washington to protest against the higher level. Fond du Lac officials favor a lower level than provided in the present federal agreement. It was stated. When the water was supposed to be but 15 inches above the dam at Menasha last week, an investigation revealed that it was 28 1/2 inches, it was reported at Fond du Lac.

LOCAL WOMAN DONATES OLD DRESS TO MUSEUM

Miss Anna L. Tenney of this city has donated a dress which is about 100 years old to the Neville Public museum at Green Bay. The garment is a child's dress made of printed calico and is considered a very valuable exhibit by the museum officials.

The dress had been preserved by the family into which the child was born and was given to Miss Tenney with the request that it be donated to the museum in Green Bay. A piece of calico of unusual design, from the time of the Civil war, was also donated by Miss Tenney.

SCHOOL NURSES VISIT 200 HOMES IN MONTH

Nearly 200 homes were visited and 120 school visits were made in November, according to the monthly report of the school nurses, Misses Mary Orbison and Jane Barclay. Thirty-six children attended the dental clinic and 122 cases of defective teeth, vision, speech and tonsils were corrected.

Sixty colds among school children were reported, and 23 cases of chicken pox. Other illnesses investigated by the nurses included one case of scarlet fever and one of measles, five of influenza, one of pneumonia and 14 skin conditions.

Thirty-two pupils were given first aid, 111 notices were sent to parents and 36 classroom talks were given. Over 900 pupils were weighed; 167, 10 per cent or more underweight; 21, 20 per cent or more overweight. Complete inspection was given to 615 pupils and partial inspection to 100.

111 MILLION MERGER FORMED BY 2 CONCERNS

Milwaukee—(P)—Completion of a $111,000,000 insurance merger was announced Thursday, when directors of the Milwaukee Mechanics Insurance company, Milwaukee, voted to affiliate with the Firemen's Insurance company of Newark, N. J.

It was also learned that another concern here, the Unit Corporation of America, will in all likelihood be merged Friday with the Borg-Warner company of Chicago, to form an automobile parts concern.

Iceberg Survey Results In Furious Adventures

New London, Conn.—(P)—Hundreds of icebergs floating in a blue bay, thunder-roar as the bergs calved and split, a hand-to-hand battle on shipboard between the crew and a husky bear cub, a dangerous creep through field ice, a near wreck on mis-charted rocks—these were among the experiences of the Marion expedition, recently returned from the waters of Greenland.

Through it all the expedition pressed its scientific observations with unrelenting regularity, acquiring huge stores of data for use in study of the iceberg hazard. The expedition, sent north by the coast guard in the little cutter Marion, incidentally aided in the search for the Rockford-Stockholm fliers, Hassell and Cramer.

At Fort de Quervain most of the crew hiked six miles across boulder-strewn mountains and glacial till, and past ponds and lakes to gaze upon the billowy desert of ice that forms the inland ice-cap of Greenland.

Red peaks of ice-worn lava mountains rising 5,000 feet above blue ice-dotted waters, glacial torrents, coal seams and fossils in creamy limestone bespeaking a once-tropical climate were among the sights this northern section of Greenland displayed.

The Marion was tossed in a furious gale in Davis strait. For three days afterward the ship, skirted being caught in ice-floes as it wormed its way through a vast pack. Walrus were shot. A polar bear and one cub were slain. A second was captured for the National Zoo in Washington. Next day the big cub got loose. Boat-swain Krestensen battled it single-handed at first, receiving a nasty bite. Lieut. Comm. Edward H. Smith came to his aid and had the back clawed out of his coat. Finally the crew, by weight of numbers subdued the young husky.

Once during the survey Brevoort Island suddenly loomed in the night. It was charted, Commander Smith says, too far to the west, and it was lucky that the Marion did not crash on the rocks.

During its crisis-cross survey of the ocean trough between Greenland and Labrador the vessel searched for the fliers, Cramer and Hassell. After a wild night in the overfalls of Hudson strait the vessel anchored in a supposedly warm and pleasant spot in the shallow of the 7,000 foot Torguats of Labrador. These mountains form the highest land anywhere near the east coast of the Americas.

Hardly had the anchor been let down than a shrieking williwaw swept down and whitened the water. The ship heeled and swerved as though grasped in giant hands. All night these intermittent winds, warm by compression due to their quick descent, shook the craft.

Back to Greenland, farther south, where rounded mountains are covered with thick sub-arctic flora, where Danes operate a rich cryolite mine, and then the Marion pused southward.

MAN IS INJURED WHEN STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

Rasmus L. Willerson, 47, 1325 N. Onelda-st., suffered a bruised knee when he was struck by a car driven by Emil Rehfeldt, 1402 N. Clark-st., at the intersection of Wisconsin-ave and Richmond-st Thursday evening. Willerson was standing in the road at the southeast corner of the street and he was struck by Rehfeldt, who was traveling south on Richmond-st and turned to go east on Wisconsin-ave. The police car took Willerson to a physician where he was given first aid and then removed to his home.

HOOVER WILL FIND ARGENTINA RISING ON ECONOMIC PATHS

America Sold That Country 13.4 Per Cent More Goods Last Year Than in 1926

BY L. A. BROPHY

Washington, D. C. — Argentina, colossus of the South American continent, will receive President-elect Herbert Hoover as the country is forging ahead in economic prosperity.

Last year America sold Argentina 13.4 per cent more goods than in 1926. There will be a similar gain in 1928. Argentina, however, bought from the United States nearly twice as much as it sold. United States exports amounted to $109,048,000; imports were $189,863,000.

There are certain fundamental reasons for that, which may be summarized in the fact that Argentina's salable commodities are not, to a major extent, things that are needed in this country. The reverse is true as far as the United States is concerned.

The biggest gains in American exports to Argentina were in automobile tires, cotton, engines and parts, machinery, automobiles and paints. Argentina is a pastoral country. It exports mostly meat and dairy products, wheat, corn, hides and wool.

There is a feeling in the Argentine that the trade balance with the United States should be on a more even basis, and there has been some talk of "trade barriers."

Analysis, however, shows that the United States charges less duty on Argentine goods than Argentina does on United States goods.

Mr. Hoover undoubtedly will hear of these economic issues and of recent problems that at times have become grave, that have confronted the country's greatest industry cattle raising and the shipment of meat.

Argentina now sends its beef in greatest amounts to Great Britain and other European countries. Contrary to most beliefs, there is not a United States embargo, as such, against the importation of Argentine meats because of the hoof-and-mouth disease in that country.

There is a department of agriculture order preventing shipment into America of meats from any section infected with the hoof-and-mouth disease. That, of course, prevents shipments from any country where the disease is prevalent.

Control of the cattle disease has been an internal problem in Argentina in recent years. An English commission now is preparing a report, after a first hand survey, on the possibility of transmission of the disease to British Isles.

Argentina covers an area a third as large as the United States. Its exports and imports are double those of any other South American country.

Buenos Aires, the capital, with 2,000,000 population, is one of the world's beautiful cities and its sumptuous architectural sights lead the traveler to compare it with Paris.

Dr. Hipolito Irigoyen was inaugurated president for a third six-year term October 15. The country is considered to have made unusual progress under his administration.

SEEK BIDS ON COUNTY HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENT

Sealed proposals are to be received by the Wisconsin Highway committee and the Outagamie county highway committee at the division office of the state highway department at Green Bay up to 11 o'clock Thursday morning, Dec. 27, for furnishing and placing crushed stone or gravel surfacing on the Black Creek-New London road between Black Creek and Shiocton.

The estimated quantity of surfacing is 11,200 cubic yards. Work is to be done in accordance with plans and specifications on file at the offices of both highway groups.

Additional plans can be secured either at the highway office in Appleton or Madison. Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check for $1,200 as a guarantee.

VAN DYNE CROSSING DUE FOR IMPROVEMENT

Surveying crews have started taking measurements of the "death curve crossing" at Van Dyne for the new grade crossing elimination project which will be constructed at the intersection of Highway 41 and the Soo Line and Chicago and Northwestern railroad tracks.

The surveyors have started their relocation of the highway at a crossroads about a quarter of a mile south of the crossing. The highway will make an easy curve to the trestle which will extend over the railroad right-of-ways and in a similar curve turn north to connect with the concrete highway a block south of the Van Dyne bank. The sharp right angle curve, now existing at this point, will thus be eliminated.

Elimination of this dangerous curve will remove one of the greatest traffic hazards between Appleton and Milwaukee. Several fatal accidents have occurred there during the past few years.

"Wisconsin Phalanx" Outlined In Journal

Madison, (P)—Details of the "Wisconsin Phalanx" were given by Edgar D. Doudna, secretary of the state board of normal regents in his monthly chapter of "dramatic events" in the Wisconsin Journal of Education.

"In the early winter of 1844 a stock company was formed with shares of twenty-five dollars each. The company was christened the 'Wisconsin Phalanx' and its membership was soon filled. A tract of land was purchased in the valley of Ceresco (named for Ceres, goddess of growing plants), where the beautiful little city of Ripon now stands.

Temporary quarters were erected and on May 27 the Phalanx began its interesting history. Although it was late, the pioneers broke some of the land and planted their crops, only to have them destroyed by an unusually late frost. Undaunted, they labored on, lived simply, and shared alike food and hardship.

Their charter and some attractive provisions, two of which are especially interesting. Free schools were to be provided nine months in the year, capital to pay three-fourths of the cost and labor one-fourth. Religious freedom was guaranteed and no member of the Phalanx was to be taxed for the support of any minister of religion.

Three classes of usefulness were recognized—agricultural, mechanical and educational. One need not work unless he chose to, but no work, no reward. Credit was given on a basis of accomplishments—not for time served—and a careful and exact set of books were kept. At the end of the year profits were divided according to the scheme of Fourier. At

FUR MANUFACTURE GROWING RAPIDLY

Establishments Increase from 1,300 to 2,000 Between 1914-1925

BY BASCOM N. TIMMONS

Washington, D. C. — The remarkable growth of fur-manufacturing in the United States is set out in a survey just made by the Department of Commerce. The number of establishments engaged in the manufacture of fur goods between 1914 and 1925 increased from 1,300 to 2,000.

of the experiment came in 1850. The land was sold for $40,000, the proceeds divided, and the members went out to carry on their work in a world which disregards social equality and gives its rewards to the strong and acquisitive. Wisconsin was "saved" from a "swelling flood" of mad fanaticism that threatened to engulf us," as one of the opponents of the Phalanx said. "It had been a playground for lunatics and idiots, although it was a rather naive attempt to apply an appealing social theory."

000, the total number of wage earners advanced from 9,000 to 17,000. 17,000, while the wholesale value of their aggregate output rose from $44,000,000 to $254,000,000.

The Mississippi Valley, it is pointed out, is the largest fur-producing area in the world and it is due to the large catch in this region that domestic production each year amounts to between $65,000,000 and $70,000,000. This is about double the catch of Russia and considerably more than three times that of Canada. In addition to the furs gathered in United States proper, the value of the annual fur collection of this country is augmented each year by more than $4,000,000 worth of furs from Alaska.

MOTHER OF TEN IS GIVEN LIFE TERM FOR SELLING BOOZE

Lansing, Mich.—Michigan's Most law, which commands life imprisonment for a person four times convicted of felony, has fastened its fingers for the first time Thursday upon a woman.

Jury of 10 men and two women Wednesday convicted Mrs. Etta Mat Miller of selling liquor, it being her fourth conviction on a felony charge. The verdict was returned in the courtroom of Judge Charles B. Collingwood, the same judge who heard the trial of Fred Palm, first person to be sentenced under the law. The Palm case attracted wide attention when the defense contended that Palm was "given life for having a pint of gin."

Mrs. Miller, 48, is the mother of 10 children, four of whom are living. Of these four, she testified, she was the sole support. Her husband already is serving a penitentiary sentence for prohibition law violation.

Calcutta, India, has just received its first mail from Europe by air.

Roosevelts Will Comb Wilds Again For Science Cause

Sail from New York for Exploration Trip into French Indo-China

New York (AP)—A remote part of French Indo-China where conditions of climate and travel are so difficult that no comprehensive collecting has ever been done there by any scientists will be combed for zoological specimens by the Field Museum expedition led by Theodore and Kermit Roosevelt.

Sailing from New York November 10, the Roosevelts, with Suydam Cutting, plan a trip which projects a 3,000 to 3,000 mile hike, through mountains and gorges of southwest China, and the jungles and swamps of Indo-China.

Cheap mouse traps and big game rifles are in the equipment carried by the party. The mouse traps will be used nightly to take small animals, and because of the wild nature of the country, species new to zoology are hoped for. The rifles are to be used to obtain the first complete exhibits in this country of some of the rare larger animals.

These larger animals will go to the Field Museum of Natural History in Chicago, which, with William V. Kelley, a Chicago business man, sponsors the expedition.

One special objective of the party is an animal with long yellow hair, short curved horns, a long face of the shape and expression of a Billy goat, and a somewhat bulky body, like that of a cow. The museum authorities say it is perhaps best described as a "goat-antelope."

Other specimens sought are deer, elephant, three kinds of wild cattle, including bison and skedang (a big red cow), possibly tiger, clouded and ordinary leopard, and rhinoceros.

Except that the jumping-off place will be somewhere north of Calcutta, the route is not fixed; for Colonel Roosevelt says it is not certain what parts of the area may be penetrable.

To ease their way, the party is carrying a supply of turquoise rings for hill and jungle dignitaries. In addition, they count on using their rich past experience in making friends with natives through use of simple devices. This is Kermit Roosevelt's fourth scientific expedition, Colonel Roosevelt's second and Cutting's fourth.

Cutting is a photographer. He has a world-wide record among scientific men for skill and daring in photographing animals. The expedition is divided into two sections. The Indo-China contingent will be led by Harold Coolidge, Jr., of Boston, a young mammalogist. He will be accompanied by three other naturalists.

Before starting, Colonel Roosevelt was receiving about 40 letters a day from persons wishing to go along or asking him to bring back souvenirs. One asked him to bring back "feathers to make dry flies for trout fishing."

TWO WEEK VACATION FOR TRADE STUDENTS

Classes at the Appleton Vocational school will close at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon, Dec. 21, for a two week holiday recess, according to Herb Heilig, director. The first class following the Christmas vacation will open at 8 o'clock Monday, Jan. 7. It is expected most teachers will leave Friday evening for their homes to spend the vacation with friends and relatives.

Country Roosevelts Will Explore

French Indo-China and southwest China, shown in the map above, are the goals of a Field museum expedition led by Theodore Roosevelt (left) and his brother Kermit (right). In sections of Indo-China hitherto unexplored for zoological specimens, the party, which will include Suydam Cutting (inset), well known photographer, hopes to find species new to zoology. A trip including a 2,000 to 3,000 mile hike through mountains and gorges, jungles and swamps is projected.

RECIPROCAL CLAUSE FAVORED IN STATE

Badger Manufacturer Approves Proposal, Chamber of Commerce Learns

That Wisconsin manufacturers are interested in the move to have a reciprocal clause placed in the state inheritance tax law this winter, a move supported by Appleton chamber of commerce, is indicated in a letter recently received from the United States Chamber of Commerce at Washington, D. C.

The question of the inheritance law now is being studied by the local chamber which has interested Assemblyman Oscar Schmieg in the move. He hopes that he will introduce a bill to amend the Wisconsin law at the next session of the legislature.

The letter from the United States chamber names A. F. Johnson, association of commerce, Racine; F. J. Tharinger, National Macaroni company, Milwaukee; Harry J. Bell, executive director, Milwaukee Association of Commerce; E. E. Vail, Gurney Refrigerator company, Fond du Lac; M. R. Jeffris, Chamber of Commerce, Rhinelander; E. C. Schweitzer, Aluminum Goods Manufacturing company, Manitowish; and Alfred J. Kleckhefer, National Enameling and Stamping company, Milwaukee, as men who have written regarding the change.

The reciprocal clause will eliminate paying of inheritance taxes in Wisconsin if taxes are paid in another state. The national chamber is interested in having as many states as do not now have the reciprocal clause in their tax law, adopt it.

STILL 13 CASES OF CHICKEN POX HERE

Despite the fact one new case was reported to health officers Thursday there now are only 13 cases of chicken pox in the city, according to Theodore Sanders, deputy health officer. The new case Thursday was the first reported in nearly two weeks. There still is one case of diphtheria here, the patient being confined to the isolation hospital and two cases of scarlet fever.

A perfect map of the stars, as seen from London is depicted inside an umbrella taken by its owner to the recent meeting of the British Association in Glasgow.

TRAFFIC STUDENTS TO STUDY RECONSIGNMENTS

Diversion and reconsignment will be studied during the traffic study meeting being sponsored by the chamber of commerce department at the next meeting Monday evening. The period will be devoted to discussion of the need for diversion or shipments over other than the regular route as in cases of fruit shipments. Roy G. Wort, traffic manager of the chamber, has charge of the class.

CODE WILL REQUIRE FURNACE APPROVAL

Majority of Home Builders Now Ask Building Inspector to Do Work

Although Appleton has no ordinance making inspection of a recently installed furnace compulsory, many people ask the building inspector to go over their heating plant when he inspects a home before issuing a permit of occupancy, according to John N. Welland, building inspector. In a few cases a newly installed furnace in a home occupied for years is inspected at the owner's request.

Several years ago, according to Mr. Welland, there was an ordinance requiring the fire chief to inspect newly installed furnaces. However, the law never was enforced. When the new city building code is completed there will be a provision requiring inspection of furnaces, it is said. This provision now is being incorporated in the revised statutes being prepared by L. Hugo Keller, city revisor of ordinances. Several cities, among them Oshkosh, now have an ordinance in force which prohibits building a fire in a newly installed furnace until after the furnace is inspected. Paris is holding scooter Derbys.

SAVE AND BE POOR, SPEND AND BE RICH, HENRY FORD ADVISES

Auto Magnate Tells Young Folks to Spend Money to Improve Themselves

Washington D. C. — Henry Ford believes the advice frequently given to young boys — that to succeed they must work hard and save their money — is partly wrong.

Before going to the White house to attend the annual dinner given by the National Academy of Sciences, the Detroit manufacturer was asked if he had anything to say for publication and statement about boys.

"No successful boy ever saved any money," he said. "They spent it as fast as they got it for things to improve themselves."

He recalled that Thomas A. Edison, his close friend, never "had any money until he got so much he couldn't spend it."

"If you want to make a real story," he continued, "instill in the minds of the young man that they will never get anywhere without work. I never knew a young man that was worth 5 cents that wouldn't get into trouble in his efforts to learn."

"When I was a young fellow I got kicked out of about as many shops as I was welcomed to."

He explained that in his attempt to learn as much as possible about machinery he would slip into every available machine shop and watch their operations.

"No one will ever get anywhere in this world unless he becomes a teacher, one who can show others how to do things."

He recalled how both Edison and himself, in working out their respective plans, had to teach others to make every piece of machinery they needed.

Mr. Ford paid tribute to President Coolidge, who, he said, "will go down in history as a great president," and one who has the respect of the whole world for his work after the hodge-podge in Washington during the world war.

Award Edison Medal For "Sewing Thread" Lamp

West Orange, N. J. — (AP) — Fifty years ago on October 21 Thomas A. Edison sent an electric current through a carbonized piece of sewing-thread sealed in a glass bulb. The result was the first practical incandescent electric light—the wonder of its day.

In commemoration of that occasion and on the eve of its golden anniversary, the inventor will receive a congressional gold medal. The secretary of the treasury, Andrew Mellon, will present it at the Edison laboratory here on the evening of October 20, after a brief address by President Coolidge, broadcast over a nationwide hookup of radio stations.

It was in his old laboratory at Menlo Park, N. J., that Edison evolved the crude forerunner of the present lighting system. Having just invented the phonograph, Edison in 1878 was ready to tackle another problem and turned to the "subdividing of the electric light." For the are lamps of that day, with other defects, were too intensely bright for small rooms, and gas illumination had disadvantages.

Others had made experimental lamps embodying the incandescent principle of heating a substance with electrical current until it glowed. But none was practical.

Working almost constantly with an enthusiastic force that slept but a few hours each day, Edison first confirmed the others' failures. Then he tested his own theories, trying successively burners made of carbonized paper, metals and again different forms of carbon. They all broke, or burned out, or melted in the glass bulbs from which air had been laboriously pumped by hand.

Meanwhile Edison was undaunted by the ridicule that followed his efforts.

His chief difficulty having been the construction of the carbon filament, he looked around for a durable material and finally hit upon cotton thread. Bending pieces of thread into hairpin shape, he would bake them in a nickel mould until they became wisps of carbon. But each time they would break, once just as Edison reached the glassblower's house where the lamps were made.

Eventually, however, a carbon was completed, inserted in a bulb, the air exhausted and the lamp sealed. The current was turned on and that first lamp, lighted October 21, 1878, burned 45 hours.

Gas lighting was to be supplanted and the evolution of the incandescent lamp into the vacuum tube or Edison or radio was to help in "illuminating the path of progress" for which the inventor now gets another medal.

FOR Christmas

This Week's Prize "Kitchen-tested" Recipe

Of 319 women trying this greatly simplified recipe, 318 had perfect results their first try. It's called a "Party Cake," but don't wait for a party to try it. Have it next Sunday as a treat for the family.

By the development of an utterly new type of flour—Gold Medal "Kitchen-tested" Flour—baking has been simplified amazingly for housewives. And the cause of most baking disappointments banished. "Kitchen-tested" means that every batch of this flour has been tested in an oven just like yours, before it goes to you. Tested for uniformity of result with home recipes.

That means Gold Medal Flour always acts the same way EVERY TIME with your recipes.

Ask your grocer for GOLD MEDAL "Kitchen-tested" Flour. For perfect results, be sure and get that brand of flour before you try this recipe.

Cut out along this line and save—

RECIPE . . . Party Cake

¾ cup shortening, 2 cups sugar, 3¼ cups GOLD MEDAL "KITCHEN-TESTED" FLOUR, ½ tsp. salt, 5 tsp. baking powder, 1½ cups milk, 1½ tsp. flavoring, 5 egg whites.
METHOD: 1. Cream shortening and add sugar gradually. 2. Sift flour once before measuring. 3. Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder, and add alternately with milk. 4. Add flavoring—vanilla and almond together are good. 5. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. 6. Pour into well greased and floured pans and bake. TIME: Bake 30 minutes. TEMPERATURE: 350° F., moderate oven. SIZE OF PAN: Two 9-inch layer pans or three 7-inch layer pans. AMOUNT: 16 servings. Comfort 2½ cups sugar, ¼ cup white corn syrup, ¼ cup water, 2 egg whites, 1½ tsp. vanilla. METHOD: 1. Mix together sugar, corn syrup, and water. 2. Boil without stirring. Remove crystals from around pan during boiling process by means of a wet cloth. Cook until first indication of a thread appears. 234° F. 3. Pour the hot syrup slowly over stiffly beaten egg whites, beating with egg beater during addition. 4. Add vanilla and continue beating with a spoon until mixture will hold its shape (about 10 minutes). 5. If mixture does not set so that it will stay on cake, add 2 or 3 tablespoons of powdered sugar, a tablespoon at a time until mixture is stiff enough. NOTE: Part of icing may be colored pink with vegetable coloring matter and used on sides of cake with white icing on top and between layers. Pink candies to match sides can be placed on top of cake for birthday party.

WISCONSIN CAMPUS AWAITS CATLIN'S CHOICE OF QUEEN

From King Has Dopesters
Guessing as He Holds Off
His Announcement

Madison — Two events are being eagerly awaited on the University of Wisconsin campus—the Christmas vacation, which begins Dec. 19, and Prom Chairman John Catlin's announcement of the co-ed who will be the queen of the annual junior prom at the university. Catlin is a son of Mark Catlin, Appleton attorney and former football coach at Lawrence college.

Campus dopesters and matchmakers have been busy for weeks selecting possible candidates for the honor. Ever since his election in November, the prom chairman's "dates" and dance partners have been watched with quizzical interest. After a final round-up and appraisal of possible queen candidates, one of the following seems destined to be the lucky girl:

Jane Friedl, brunette, Chicago; Jessica Price, brunette, Denver, Colo.; Catherine McKnight, brunette, Memphis, Tenn.; Mercedes Jelsman, brunette, Des Moines, Ia.; Betty H. Collier, blonde, Madison; Florence R. Moore, blonde, Shelbyville, Ill.; Lois Fish, blonde, Madison; Harriet Cheeseman, blonde, Burlington, Wis.; Catherine Postuma, blonde, Chicago.

The prom king's lieutenants have practically admitted that the queen will be chosen from among the above group.

This year's junior prom will, for the first time in history, be held in the new Memorial Union building. The date has been set for February 8. The prom for many years has been held in the state capitol, the legislature and C. B. Ballard, superintendent of state property, granting permission for use of the state house for the occasion.

When approached last week by Prom Chairman Catlin, who wished to secure the state house again for this year's party, Mr. Ballard refused to sanction use of the capitol at a date when, because of the change in governors, he may not be the person who will make the decision.

Mr. Catlin and his assistant chairman thereupon began to base their prom plans upon use of the Memorial Union building, the Great Hall of which will not comfortably hold more than 400 couples dancing at the same time. The pre-prom dance also will be held in the Union building, according to John Dixon, Madison, chairman of the event. Jan. 11 is the date set for this event.

FACES ASSAULT CHARGE AFTER AUTO COLLISION

His arraignment in municipal court Tuesday afternoon on an assault and battery charge, when he was freed on $50 bail until his preliminary hearing Monday, Dec. 17, marked the culmination of an automobile accident in which William Ross, town of liberty, was one of the principals last Friday at the corner of W. College-ave and Richmond-st. The other principal was Charles Peebles, 17, Appleton, and his father is the complainant.

After the cars driven by Ross and young Peebles collided, an argument between them was brought to a sudden close when Ross brought his fists into play, catching Peebles a blow in the eye, it is alleged in the complaint. Peebles who had been traveling east on W. College-ave, had attempted to turn north on Richmond-st. Ross had emerged on College-ave from Cherry-st, and also intended to take Richmond-st north. The cars crashed into each other at the intersection.

LAUT NAMED LEADER OF NEW CHURCH TROOP

Robert Laut was selected scoutmaster of St. Theresa church boy scout troop at a meeting of troop committee members at the home of Leon Wolf, 1417 N. Drew-st, at 7:30 Wednesday evening. John Kimball was appointed assistant scoutmaster. Plans for holding a court of review under the new court of honor system, and regular business matters were discussed.

Among those present were E. J. Ladner, Edward Murphy, and Leon Wolf. Another meeting of the committee probably will be held within the next two weeks to further plans for the scout review.

SCOUT HEAD TALKS AT BRILLION RALLY

Problems in scouting were discussed by M. G. Clark, valley scout executive, at a scout rally at Brillion Wednesday evening. An investiture ceremony was conducted by Mr. Clark, and four new scouts were admitted to the Brillion troop which is now composed of 24 boys. A program of entertainment followed the ceremony. Fifty parents witnessed the ceremony.

9 SUSPICIOUS CASES OF T. B. FOUND IN YEAR

One active and nine suspicious cases of tuberculosis have been found at clinics held by Dr. C. C. Boyd and Miss Catherine Fox of Riverview sanatorium at the Appleton Womens club during the past year. With the exception of one person with infection of the bone, all had tuberculosis of the lungs. Four were sent to Riverview, where three of the cases were arrested, and the others are under home supervision. All follow-up work is done by Miss Fox.

A Chicago policeman is being sued for $50,000 for breach of promise. The trade seems to be shifting and rich men's sons are having a little competition these days from the wealthy police.

CENSUS COMMITTEE TO MEET NEXT WEEK

Ministers of churches of all denominations in the city have been invited to a meeting of the committee in charge of arrangements for a city wide church census, at 7:30 Monday evening. The census probably will be started in January, and thus far 15 ministers have expressed their desire to cooperate. The committee in charge is composed of Professor L. A. Boettger of Lawrence college; Kenneth Corbett, secretary of the chamber of commerce; G. F. Werner, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A.; the Rev. E. F. Franz, and the Rev. J. F. Nienstedt.

CHECK WATER METERS THROUGHOUT APPLETON

With water main laying completed for the year, employees of the distribution department of Appleton water department are making their annual check of meters in Appleton manufacturing plants. Because of the size of the meters, it is said they easily measure a large flow of water but fail to record a slow flow. The meters are easily damaged and a regular checkup is necessary to keep them functioning properly.

Professor Pitkin of Columbia says there are too many best minds. On the contrary, there didn't seem to us to be so many good quarterbacks this season.

BEAUTY HINTS

THE NEW Saint Sinner

By Anne Austin
©1928 by NEA Service, Inc.

From the very way that Tony curled herself upon his lap and cuddled her fresh, camellia-white young cheek against his, Pat Tarver knew that his daughter was going to wheedle something out of him.

"Has Tony been a good girl, Pat?" she murmured cajolingly.

"Has she? . . . I don't know? How should I know? I'm only her father," Pat retorted.

"She has," Tony assured him brazenly. "She's only kissed four men this week. Has Pat been a good boy?"

"A model husband and father," Pat groaned comically. "But I'm not making any promises. . . Well, what do you want? Come clean!"

Tony hedged, or appeared to do so. "You didn't really mean it—that you said about not letting me learn to fly, did you, beloved?"

"You're darned right I did!" Pat blustered making as if to dump her from his lap. "If I catch you in a plane—"

"If you do, you'll have to fly high, wide and handsome," Tony giggled. "Pat, please don't have a stroke or swallow that one false back tooth of yours, or anything foolish like that, but—I have been up in a plane."

"Your mother was right about Sandy Ross!" Pat exploded. "His handsome Black-Irish face darkening with real anger. 'He's a bad influence on you, Tony—'"

"Oh, Pat, that's delicious!" Tony laughed, kissing him.

But Pat growled. "Now, listen to me, young lady, you stay on the ground! No more skylarking with Sandy Ross!"

"Yes, sir," Tony agreed, very meekly. "But—suppose it's all right for me to go up by myself, isn't it?"

Pat collapsed then and Tony fanned him furiously with a scrap of paper. When he was able to storm again, he seized her wrist and took the bit of cardboard from her. "What's this?"

"Just—just my pilot's license," Tony admitted, still in her meekest little-girl voice. Then, her voice grew firm with the thrill of it. "Oh, Pat! Just think—I'm a real, honest-to-goodness aviator! I won't be called an 'avatrix'!"

The first in this state, Pat—the very first girl aviator! Aren't you proud of me?"

Pat Tarver put his head in his hands and groaned in very genuine misery. Tony giggled into his lap again and consoled him, as only Tony could. "There's really no danger, darling Pat. You know I wouldn't risk getting all bungled up myself. . . Flying isn't any more dangerous than driving a car, honestly! Cross my heart! Sh-h-h! Here comes Peg. Not a word to her, or I'll be clapped into a nunnery!"

She was glad of a chance to escape from the spectacle of Pat's misery. "Look there! A run . . . in them new five dollar silk stockings!" Peg Tarver detained her daughter, prettily. "At this rate we'll be bankrupt in a year."

"Sorry, Peg!" Tony answered, with unusual docility. "But it won't matter about the run now. I'm only going to dash over to see Crystal. I've just realized that Sunday's nearly gone and I haven't seen her all day."

Faith admitted Tony. "Crystal? Why, she said she was going some where with you. She left an hour ago." And there was sudden acute worry in Faith's brown eyes.

NEXT: Crystal receives a proposal of marriage.

HANDBAGS IN AUTOMOBILE LINE AND COLOR

Paris—(P)—Handbags with the outlines of motor cars, made in the shades of the individual's private car, are a new offering on the market here.

The doors of the auto-bags open and close to accommodate powder puffs, handkerchiefs, lipsticks and the sundries of the modern woman. The bags sometimes match leather motor coats. They are available in many colors, however, ready made.

Rival Couturiers Show Models Of Similarity

At Longchamps mannequins from two rival houses wore black coats with similar white fur trim on collar and cuffs.

BY JEAN PATOU
FOR NEA SERVICE

PARIS—Fashions can only be born in an atmosphere conducive to inspiration, execution and distribution.

Paris is ideally situated to fill all these requirements. That is why the success of everything pertaining to fashions is due, it is said, to the atmosphere of Paris! It is also an undisputed fact that this particular "ambiance" or atmosphere constitutes a very important element in the creations of couturiers are concerned.

So strong is this atmosphere influence, call it what you will, that it manifests itself throughout all the numerous collections, although they are shown almost simultaneously in Paris. Undoubtedly the most extraordinary feature of it is that although each collection is inspired by a different creator and executed by different "modellistes" unconsciously they manage to strike a note of harmony and concordance.

RIVALS SHOW SIMILARITY
How secretly these creations are executed everyone connected with the world of Parisian fashions knows. I am quite aware that men will make the obviously masculine remark that in a milieu so essentially feminine no secret can possibly be guarded. But however paradoxical this may seem, I affirm that every couturier worthy of the name works out his ideas without ever bothering about what his colleagues may be doing. This, coists who thrive on other people's ideas and inspirations.

There existed before the war in the course, does not apply to second-rate dressmaking houses nor to rank world of fashion over here a certain unity of conception that has almost entirely disappeared today. Although it is the same inspiring Parisian atmosphere you will trace nowadays several modes, different styles preserving, nevertheless, certain harmonious resemblances and all equally beautiful.

Certain famous couturiers, whose establishments enjoyed a sustained vogue and prestige for many years before the war were inclined to feel somewhat saddened by what they termed "the new spirit of anarchy" in fashions. Little by little, however, even the most conservative began to find this diversity of styles pleasing, especially so when it was proved that these different modes of expression were not as revolutionary as they seemed and that their evolution stopped at that point.

PARIS INFLUENCES ALIKE
I find it interesting to agree that each couturier should thus be able to assert his independence and work out his ideas when preparing a collection rather than have us all follow the same style like so many sheep.

What is certain is that there is an intangible quality in the atmosphere that sets couturiers working on the same idea, just as artists are influenced in the same direction at times. It is a question of something in the air. A case in point was evident a few years back when everything pertaining to creative art was distinctly reminiscent of the Second Empire. The public at that time was obviously ready for it and the couturier sensed the movement. After all that is part of his mission and will happen time and again.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST—Oranges, cereal, cream, crisp graham toast, bread crumb pancake, syrup, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Macaroni with peanut butter, stewed tomatoes, canned pears, sugar cookies, milk, tea.

DINNER—Mold of fish and vegetables, spinach salad, rice bread, pineapple cream pudding, milk, coffee.

The main dish in the dinner menu is made with salt codfish, potatoes, celery and beets he cooked, finely chopped, combined with eggs and baked until firm in a baking dish. The loaf is turned out on a hot platter and served with cream sauce to which hard cooked eggs have been added. The fish, potatoes and celery are cooked separately, minced and added with the eggs.

Pineapple Cream Pudding
One cup grated pineapple, 1 lemon, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 1-2 tablespoons granulated gelatin, 1-2 cup whipping cream, 2 tablespoons powdered sugar.

Beat yolks of eggs slightly. Add granulated sugar, grated rind and juice of lemon. Add salt and cook over hot water, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Remove from heat and add gelatin softened for five minutes in five tablespoons cold water. Stir until dissolved and add pineapple. Let stand until mixture begins to jelly. Fold in whites of eggs beaten until stiff and dry and cream whipped until firm with powdered sugar. Turn into a mold dipped in cold water and let stand on ice to chill and become firm.

Make tarts from leftover bits of pie dough. Fit them into small pans and add portions of fruits or jelly, sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar and cover with cross-cross strips of dough. These are nice for the children, lunches or picnics.

CHASE SCENE SHIFTS WHEN WINTER COMES

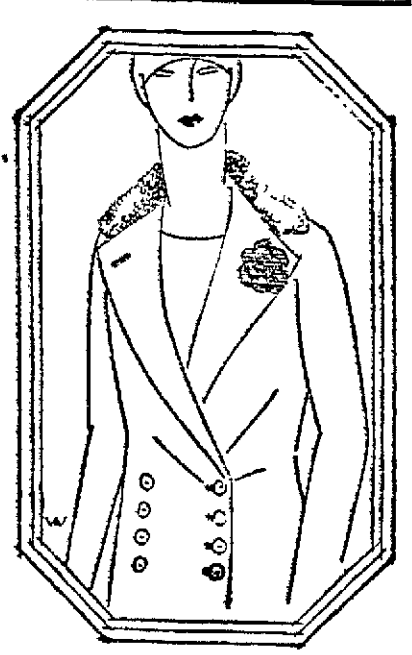

Mobile, Ala.—(P)—Scarcely will the clatter of horses' hoofs and the bark of the hounds die away in Virginia before sportsmen will be turning to southwestern Alabama for the winter chase of the National Fox Hunters association.

Mobile county, scene of the hunt, abounds in native grey foxes, while red foxes will be brought here. The hunt will be conducted during the last week in January.

A bear hunt, duck shooting and winter fishing are some of the other attractions for the visitors to the chase.

WHITE YOKE
A black chiton evening gown, polka dotted with jet, has a gleaming white yoke, joined to the black by white velvet flowers, sprinkled with diamonds.

Fashion Plaques

INTERESTING FEATURES of this new gray tailored coat are the fitted waistline, the notched collar trimmed with astrakhan, the flower on the lapel and the double-breasted effect.

DANGERS OF MAKING A BOY INTO A "HE-MAN"

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Often parents, especially fathers are so determined to make he-men out of their boys, they go to extremes.

I know one father who refused to allow his little son to listen to any "silly" bedtime stories, as he called them. If dozing aunts sent in tales of Uncle Wiggly and Nurse Jane Fuzzy Duzzy, or Mrs. Tiggy Winkle, the porcupine washlady, he declared it was all hush and nonsense and that he wasn't going to allow his boy to be made into a sissy. Not if he knew it.

And Mr. Know-It-All substituted books on the biographies of great men, and suggestions for making things and true adventures, and books of travel and whatnot, for the lovely children's books sent in by friends.

He curled his lip when he leafed through these adorable books of Kipling's, "The Jungle Book," and "Just So Stories."

"The idea," he scorned. "Here's a story actually called 'The Scutter fly That Stamped Such nonsense'."

So he put the "Jungle Book" and "Just So Stories" away in the bookcase, beside Howard Garis and Beatrix Potter, and rested content. His son was going to be a he-man.

But this was not all. Sonny had said "Mother, I'd like a baby bear for Christmas. Will you please tell Santa Claus to bring me a baby bear?"

And Aunt May had sent the cutest little monkey with a red cap, and the loveliest long, long tail.

But neither Mother nor Aunt May dared to buy either the bear or the monkey for they knew that Sonny's father would raise Cain if they did.

And so Sonny's Christmas tree is going to be a regular 20th century one, bristling with mechanical sets, trains automobiles, fire-engines, an airplane, a printing press, trick blocks to build skyscrapers, boats—all sorts of things that are calculated to make him masculine gender first person, singular.

But doesn't a little boy have to have things to love as well as a little girl? Children are sexless and there is no disgrace in permitting a boy as well as a girl to love a monkey or a rabbit or some other cuddly thing.

Indeed he needs these things or tell your friends before him.

And if he takes the doll to bed instead of his engine, don't laugh. He'll outgrow it only too soon.

WOMAN FIRST ON LIST TAKING LAW EXAMS

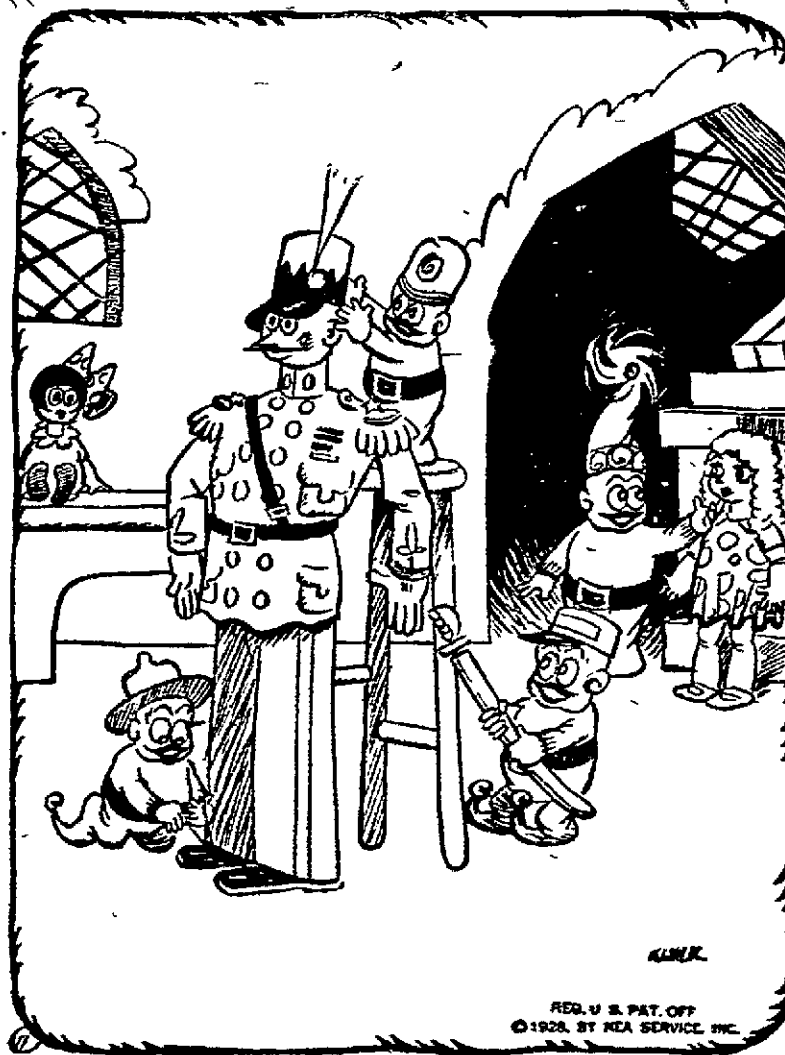

Boston.—(P)—For the first time in the history of the Massachusetts bar a woman has led the list of those taking the examination.

She is Miss Celia Raphael, 21-year-old law school graduate and youngest of a group of 397 persons taking the examination.

Miss Raphael was only 20 when she was graduated from the North eastern School of Law. That was in 1927 and her degree was held back until she became 21.

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

THE Tynymites sat down to rest. Said Scouty, "We have done our best. I think that Santa will be pleased, when all the dolls are seen. Here's one girl doll that I like best. She's much more friendly than the rest. The tag upon her dress says that her name is 'Little Queen.'"

Just then the Tynymites heard a squeak. The little doll began to speak. "Yes, I'm a little queen," said she. "Won't someone get my crown. I think you'll find it on the shelf, and I can't reach it there myself." In just a moment Clowny jumped, and promptly brought it down.

"Ah, here you are," he smiled and said. "Stand still. I'll put it on your head. Please tell us what you're queen of. Do you rule some wondrous land? If so, we'd like to visit there, and stay a while, if you don't care." The queen doll laughed and answered, "Oh, you do not understand."

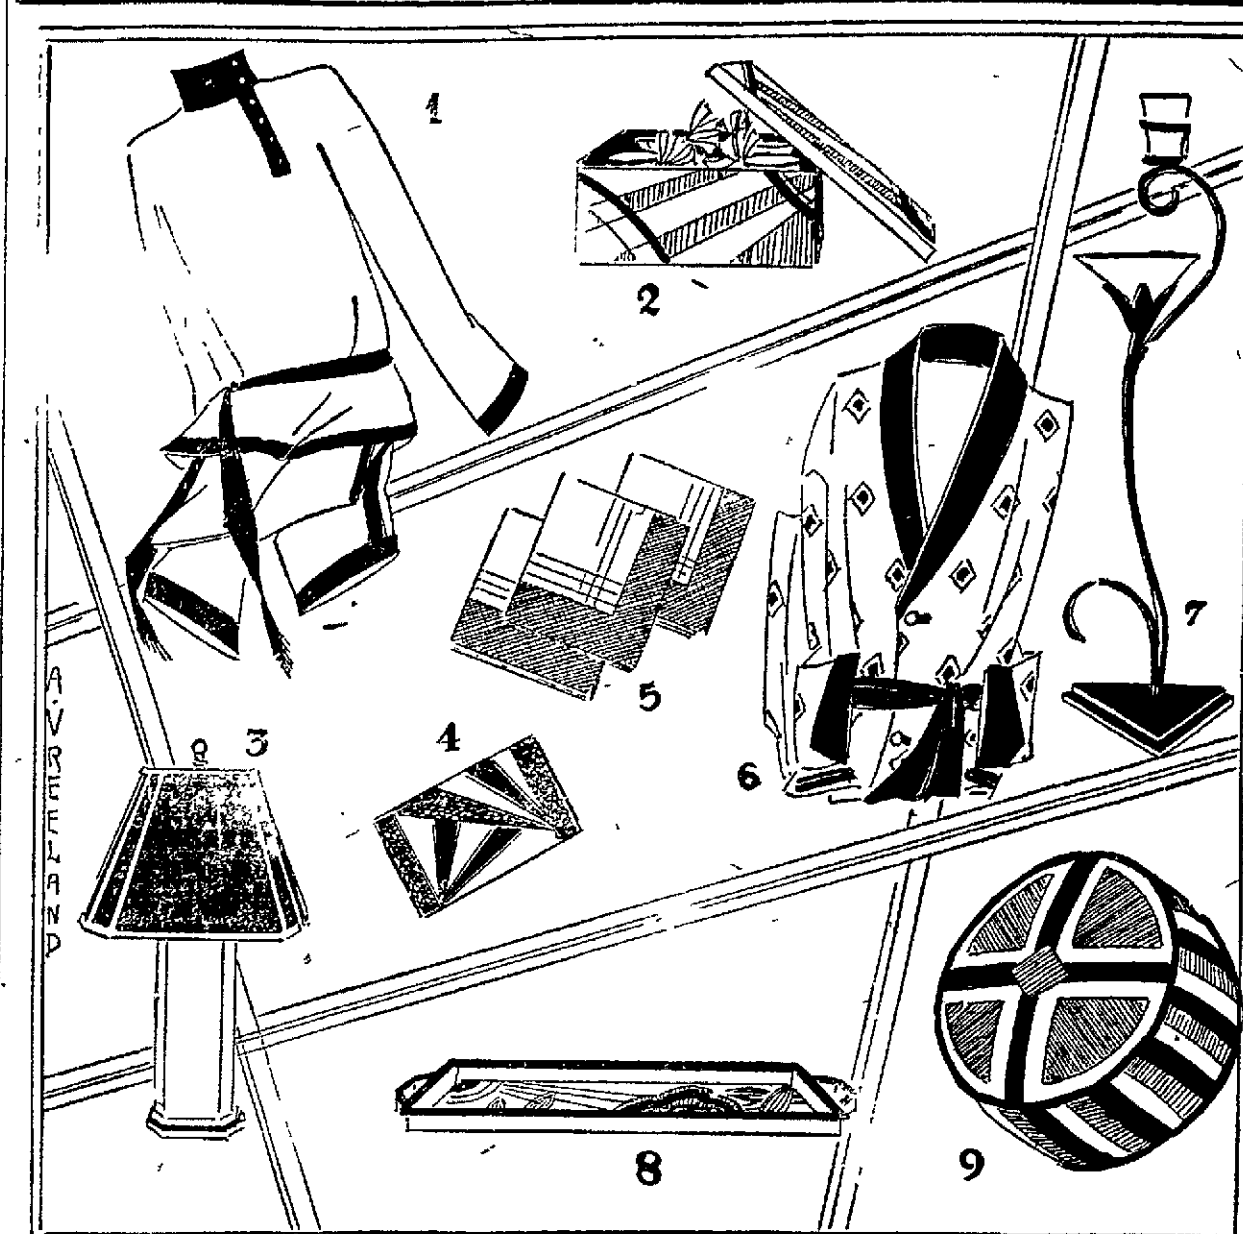

"On Christmas eve I'm going to roam, until I reach some small girl's home. Then, Christmas morn she'll find me, when she walks in on the scene. I'm not too short, and not too tall, so she will love me best of all. That's why I know I'll rule with her, and be a little queen."

A soldier doll then walked up near and loudly said, "I sadly fear that I must ask you Tynymites to please help me get dressed." "Why sure," said Coppy, "You'll look cute when we put on your soldier suit. Bring forth your clothes and stand right here, and we will do our best."

The soldier stood up, safe and sound, and all the Tynymites gathered round. To help him fix up right brought all the Tynymites real joy. At last they finished with their task. Then Scouty said, "Now all we ask is that on Christmas morning you be nice to some small boy."

(The Tynymites make a lot of noise in the next story.)

YOUTH LIKES COLORFUL MODERN GIFTS

The bachelor girl or man or the college girl or boy would appreciate modernistic personal things or something to add "atmosphere" to his room, such as (1) a modernistic lounge suit with Russian collar, made of gold-yellow crepe with black trim; (2) a decorative box of home-made jellies and marmalade for company breakfasts and midnight lunches; (3) a modernistic lamp of metal base and scarlet shade; (4) a modernistic cigarette holder; (5) a set of the new, novel gingham plaid crepe paper napkins and table cloth; (6) a rich lounge robe of diamond-dots of rich red on a beige background; (7) a colorful modern smoking stand, and beverage holder; (8) a modernistic tray or (9) a leather hassock in college colors or in striking red, black, gold and a touch of green.

BY JULIA BLANSHARD

NEW YORK.—College girls and boys and the independent apartment-dwelling bachelors be they men or women—view Christmas in a highly practical way.

It is a real opportunity for the family to stock them up. And why not? They usually have little money for extras. And they often are at that age when little extras mean more to them than they ever will again.

Therefore it behooves the family to choose carefully to get the maximum of suitability out of small cost. For the average recipient in these classes, a good rule is to get several things of appreciable usefulness or beauty rather than some masterpiece whose cost would preclude any other gifts.

Any furniture or furnishings for the room from a modernistic has-sock to a piano, usually is a good choice. Lamps are especially so, no single thing can do more for a room than the right lighting fixtures. Curtains, drapes, couch covers, pillows, and colored sheets are excellent choices. Moreover, these can be made at small cost. So is smoking equipment, whether it be a smart cigarette case, tobacco sack or smoking stand done in novel design.

For the room also one might choose a modern bit of porcelain, desk sets, book ends, hanging book cases, equipment to keep wardrobes in exquisite order, rugs, pictures, heavy luxurious bath sets of towels, wash rags, bath mats and sponges, soap, bath salts to match. Dishes prove very acceptable, especially if they happen to be a tea or breakfast set of French quimper ware. Italian peasant ware. And refreshment cases of colored glass are excellent, with rose pink glass the most stylish shade now.

Mothers aunts, grandmothers and sisters who live at home and are good cooks have a vast chance to make up Christmas boxes that will arouse cheers of enthusiastic thanks. A decorative little box, basket or hamper filled with home-made sample-sized jellies, jams, marmalades and preserves lasts a long time for company breakfasts. Little parcels of home-made cookies, fruit cake, candied fruits, salted nuts, fine teas, coffees or other edibles that keep indefinitely are excellent.

He or she who paints can make charming gifts for the college or apartment "independent." For instance, paint a set of plain tin trays in gaudy, modernistic manner to use for serving company suppers on, instead of having to set a table. Paint up various boxes for waste baskets, hat boxes, desk compartments and so on. Hand-tint a few dozen fine paper napkins in modernistic design or buy a set of the new crepe paper gingham plaid napkins and table cloth.

PERSONAL GIFTS
Personal luxuries such as fine perfumery and cosmetics are good. But be sure the recipient uses the shade of rouge you pick, or the same lipstick. Lingerie, vesties, bits of jewelry and shoe buckles may be safe bets.

Young men take kindly to gifts of jazzy pajamas or some of the new colored silk underwear. Evening attire is good for men, from mufflers, dress gloves and cuff buttons to a whole Tux suit. Cans are on the up and up, but one should pick a stick to suit the "wearer."

Lounging attire, be it smocks or smoking pajamas are excellent for girls. And in this luxurious age, a silk dressing gown is most for the youth who wonders if he might, perhaps, better not try the movies. The market is fairly glutted with lovelies for the young, be it girl or boy. But the young folks in these classes mentioned must have their gifts chosen carefully. For personalities, settings, auras and fads mean a great deal in their lives and must be reckoned when choosing Christmas gifts.

Household Hints

WOODEN DISHPAN
If little sister or your maid chips dishes when washing them, try using a big chopping bowl instead of a metal dishpan.

CLEANING COPPER
Copper often may be cleaned beautifully by rubbing all over with a cut lemon dipped in salt, then rinsing thoroughly with clear water and polishing with a soft cloth or chamois.

PENNEY CO. PLANS
500 MORE STORES*Huge Expansion Program for 1929 Authorized by Directors

The J. C. Penney Co., operators of 1078 retail department stores will negotiate 500 leases for new store locations next spring for stores to be opened as rapidly as store units can be developed in a special expansion move just authorized by the board of directors. This expansion will involve an increase in retail sales of between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 over the present rate of around $100,000,000 a year. The store locations will be confined to cities and towns of from 2,500 to 5,000 population. "The decision of the board of directors to authorize this new store movement comes largely as a result of a demand from the smaller towns for J. C. Penney Co. stores and service," Earl C. Sams, president, said. "Mr. Penney has just returned from a trip of four months in which he has covered seventeen central western southern and far western states," Mr. Sams said. "I have recently covered several of the central states. We have both discovered that the smaller towns, with increased transportation facilities are demanding the same kind of shopping accommodations that the larger cities are enjoying. In many cases the secretaries of the chambers of commerce have invited us to open stores in their towns. "The store units which will be established in these new locations will be duplicates in stock, equipment and facilities for service, of the stores we are now operating in every state in the union." Following the established policy of the J. C. Penney Co., managers for the new locations will be selected from the present store personnel. "We now have, in the company, sufficient men to take care of the managerial duties in the new stores as fast as they are opened," Mr. Sams said. Central locations will be selected in all new store towns and the standard type of J. C. Penney Co. store fronts and interior arrangements will be used. Early in 1929, the J. C. Penney Co., announced that a new warehouse would be erected in St. Louis, Mo., and this new structure is now nearing completion. It will be utilized to serve the company stores in the south and the southwest. The present warehouse in

New York city will serve the eastern section of the country. The real estate division of the organization now has representatives in all parts of the country making store town selections and the construction department is making preparations for the most extensive store development program in the history of the company. The J. C. Penney Co., was founded 26 years ago in Kemmerer, Wyo. Total number of stores in operation at the present time is 1078. Estimated retail sales volume for this year is $100,000,000. According to Mr. Sams, it is expected that nearly all of the new store towns will be selected and that stores will be opened by September of 1929.

COPIES OF PICTURES*Representations of Noted
Art Works Are Financed from Exhibit

Forty-two large colored copies of famous pictures have been ordered from the Colonial Art Company of Oklahoma City, Okla., and upon their arrival will be distributed among the 12 public schools in the city. The pictures, which range from $3 to $10 in value, are being purchased with the money gained from the art exhibit recently held at Lincoln school. Each school's apportionment of the exhibit fund was $30, and each school selected its own pictures. Among the pictures ordered are the two prize pictures awarded to

First Ward and Lincoln schools for selling the greatest number of tickets for the exhibit. Both schools chose "Where the Sun Goes Down," a colorful western picture by Amick, contemporary American painter. Also included in the order are two pictures which the Wilson high school is buying with the proceeds from its lyceum course: "Home of the Heron," by Innes, and the "Great Divide," by Amick; and a picture for the second grade of the Lincoln school, "Can't You Talk," by Holmes, which is being purchased out of a special art fund in that grade. The following are the list of pictures ordered: "Two Sir Galahads," by Watt; "The Phantom Canyon," Amick; "The Horse Fair," Bonheur; "The Holland Flower Girl," Hitchcock; two of "The Pioneers," Amick; two of "Children of the Shell," Murrillo; "The Holland Flower Market," Hitchcock; four of "Devotions," Potthast; "Monarch of the Glen," Landseer; "Home of the Heron," Innes; "Venice," Bonnet; "Baby's

First Step," Millet; two of "Can't You Talk," Holmes; two of "The Shepherd Song," Glicklich; "The Shepherdess," LeFolle; "The Angelus," Millet; two of "Taos Indian Roasting Corn," Couss; "The Children's Pleasure," Potthast; "The Gleamers," Millet; "Sheep-Spring," Mauver; "Feeding Her Birds," Millet; two of "Mother and Children," Potthast; two of "Boy and the Rabbit," Raeburn; "Young Folks at the Canal," Louty; Spring Song," Glicklich; "Madonna of the Chair," Raphael; "Pilgrims Going to Church," Boughton; "Behold the Flow," Lucy Kemp-Welch; "Orphanage at Katwyk," Artz; "The Night Watch," Rembrandt; and the "Lifting Fog," Vincent.

LINCOLN'S BIBLE
HAS MARKED PAGESHistorical Volume Now Is in Keeping of Library of Congress

Washington—(AP)—Was it chance that left two white silk ribbon markers at passages particularly appropriate to the stress of the civil war in the Bible upon which Abraham Lincoln took the oath of office, or did the hand of the great Emancipator himself place them there?

The book is now in the permanent keeping of the library of congress. It was placed there last spring by Mrs. Robert Todd Lincoln together with the old family Bible of Abraham Lincoln and the gold medal presented to Mrs. Lincoln by the citizens of France after President Lincoln's death. It is a small book with red plush covers and gilt edged leaves.

The two markers were left at the thirty-first verse of Deuteronomy and the fourth chapter of Hosea. Both chapters contain verses particularly appropriate to the dark days through which Lincoln passed soon after taking the oath of office.

The sixth verse of the first named chapter reads: "Be strong and of good courage, fear not nor be afraid of them, for the Lord thy God, he it is that doth go with thee, he will not forsake thee."

The first three verses of the fourth chapter of Hosea, where the other marker rests, are as follows:

"Hear ye the word of the Lord, ye children of Israel, for the Lord hath a controversy with the inhabitants of the land, because there is no truth nor mercy nor knowledge of God in the land. By swearing and lying and killing and stealing and committing adultery they break out in blood; and blood toucheth blood. Therefore shall the land mourn and every one that dwelleth therein shall languish with the beasts of the field and with the fowls of heaven, yea, the fishes of the sea also shall be taken away."

A SPREADING EVIL
London — Methods of American bootleggers have been uncovered in local night clubs. A check-up indicates that inferior wine is being sold as champagne of ancient vintage. The fraud is consummated by using the cork from genuine stuff together with forged labels.

FAMILY AFFAIR

WHIRLWIND

BY ELEANOR EARLY

THIS HAS HAPPENED SYBIL THORNE, young mother, begins a dangerous affair with JOHN LAWRENCE, her old sweetheart. Ten years before, Sybil and John were engaged. On the eve of their marriage he was sent to France and later Sybil received word of his death. After mourning him for a year, she sought to mend her broken heart with other romances. Finally she contracted a sorry marriage, from which TEDDY—the most adorable of babies—was born. Her husband died in a motor accident the very day her divorce case was called for trial.

And, shortly, she encounters John Lawrence—back from the grave. For 10 years John has been a victim of amnesia. He has taken the name of JOHN CALDWELL and is working for a real estate firm in Boston. Upon meeting Sybil, his memory returns. He tells her that he is engaged, but, nevertheless, seeks to make love to her.

MABEL MOORE, Sybil's dearest friend, begs her to have nothing to do with John. She beseeches her to think of little TEDDY—the only constant man in the world. Craig has loved Sybil through all her romances. But Sybil laughs at Mabel's importunities and goes that night to John's apartment. He strives desperately to keep from making love to her and talks of little KITTIE BURNS his fiancée. But Sybil provokes him beyond all endurance. And he takes her roughly in his arms.

The telephone rings. It is Mabel Moore to tell Sybil that Teddy is sick.

When she reaches home, her mother and Mabel and VALERIE, her sister-in-law, are in tears. Something tells her that Teddy has died.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLVII

Sybil sat up on the bed. She passed her hand dazedly across her forehead and her eyes were wide with horror.

Tad leaned over the footboard, and her mother sat beside her, clasping her hands. Mabel was standing beside Tad and Valerie stood in the door with a bottle of brandy in her hand and tears running down her pale cheeks. Her mother's eyes were red and swollen.

Wildly Sybil searched their grieving faces.

"He's dead," she said. "My baby's dead."

Mabel came and stood beside her, and touched her gently.

"Mab, do you remember this afternoon?"

Sybil raised dry, dreadful eyes and looked at Mabel like a woman bereft of her senses.

"You said—if you had—a child like Teddy."

"Sybil! Don't dear. There was nothing you could do."

Tenderly Mabel stroked her hair. "Tell me, Mab—what happened?"

They tiptoed from the room then quietly, as people steal from death and sorrow. And Mabel, taking Sybil's hand, told of the night's stark tragedy.

"Teddy got up, dear, after you went out—"

"I went, Mab, to meet John Lawrence."

"Sh, dear—it doesn't make any difference. You know the little cricket he loves to stand on—he dragged that over to the window on Elm-st. We think he must have stood on it—and then—Oh, my dear, your poor mother blames herself so—the floor in Teddy's room was waxed this morning. It was dreadfully slippery. And the little cricket slid. Teddy's pajamas caught on the curtain hook—oh, Sybil—my poor, poor, Sybil!"

"He was hanged, Mabel? My baby was hanged?"

"But the doctor says it didn't hurt, darling. The little neckband was pulled in a single rank—tight like a noose. Ah, Sybil—it's YOU I'm crying for, dear. Teddy's all right now. His hurt was just a second—but you—oh, God help you!"

"My baby hanged?"

Mabel cringed.

"Oh, don't," she implored, "say that dreadful word again!"

"Did he scream, Mab? How did they know?"

"No, he didn't scream. Your mother was sewing in her room—there wasn't a sound. They didn't know until Val peeked in Teddy's room on her way to bed. She saw his crib empty—and—Teddy over at the window. She spoke to him first. The room was dark, of course. And then, she switched on the lights—poor Valerie."

"My baby was watching for me, Mab. Looking out the window to see me coming. I hanged him. I hanged my baby because I stayed with John Lawrence!"

Tears rolled down Mabel's pale cheeks and she hunched her shoulders abstractedly to wipe them from her chin.

"You mustn't talk like that, Sybil. We think Teddy woke up and saw the snow flakes under the street light at the corner. You know there was quite a flurry this evening. He must have been wide awake with excitement. But he was quiet as a little mouse. He tiptoed over to the fireplace for the cricket and stole very softly to the window with it."

"Your mother says if there's been a sound, she'd have heard it. She's simply broken-hearted, Sybil. So is Valerie—and Tad. You know we couldn't have loved Teddy any more—any of us—if he'd been our own little boy."

"I want to go in and see him, Mabel."

"Not tonight, Sybil."

"Yes—now. I want to see my baby."

Sybil—darling—be brave."

that soft sweet skin—oh God in heaven!"

They gave her a hypodermic to quiet her bleeding nerves, and an opiate to put her to sleep.

And in the morning, pale and wrung, she listened patiently to the doctor who told her she must not tax her strength, and that she should be brave for her mother's sake.

She waited for the undertaker to have his dreadful hour with her darling dead. . . . And when he had taken his black bag and departed, she called to Tad, and they went together to the nursery where Teddy lay in his little crib.

He looked like the Christ Child that lies in the manger at Christmas time. The little wax Christ, as white as snow and dearer than heaven and all its angels.

"I think," said Sybil, as she looked upon her child, "that we would like to be alone, Tad—Teddy and I. Let me kiss him first, Tad. Then you may kiss him. . . . Kiss his cheek, Tad. . . . I'd like you to leave his lips for me. . . . Just for me, Tad. . . . because he's my own little boy. . . . And I can't ever kiss him any more. . . ."

All morning Sybil sat with her dead child. And her mother and Valerie and Tad stood at the closed door while she sang to him, and her song tore at their heart strings.

By and by Mabel came with Jack, and they stole, too, to the nursery door . . . and turned away, because they could not bear to listen.

Half the day Sybil held her son in her arms. And his little body grew warm with the warmth of hers, and his straight small arms and legs grew soft. And the stiffness left his little fingers, when she rubbed them, so that they curled about hers.

And his hand lay like crumpled rose petals against her cheek, when she held it there. His whole body grew tender and almost rosy as she cradled it in her arms, so that the child was rare in death, and ethereal, like a baby angel without any wings, and golden curls for a halo.

Sybil told him stories and sang him lullabies.

"Sail, Baby, sail—out across the sea. Only don't forget to sail . . . back again . . . to me."

"Humor her," the doctor had told them. "Something may snap, if we are not very careful."

So they did what she asked them when she tiptoed from the room that afternoon.

"Bring me the little green pants," she commanded, "and Teddy's white linen blouse. I don't want him wearing his pajamas all day. . . . And where are his play shoes, Mother?"

Valerie pressed the blouse and sewed on a missing button. Mrs. Thorne moistened the shabby little play shoes with her tears, and kissed the scuffed-out toes.

"Poor Sybil," they whispered to one another. "She'll never get over this."

With aching hearts they brought her everything for which she asked, and left her with their darling, to dress him in his pretty best, and keep him warm and soft.

The next day was cold and stormy. A small white casket came for Teddy. And, because the wind howled and the sky was gray, Sybil dressed him warmly.

"The little red teddy bear suit,"

Val, with his red cap. And the mittens Mother knit for Christmas. And get me his over-shoes—and the furry puppy dog he loved so much. I want to tuck it under his arm like he used to carry it. And the choo-choo train Tad gave him. I'll put that at his feet. Ah, a Graham cracker, too. Val—Teddy almost always had one in his hand."

When she had clothed him for the long journey, Tad lifted him tenderly, in his blue red suit, and placed him in the casket and laid him in the nursery, with his toys around him. And they all sat about, and talked in whispers of the darling things he'd done and said, and the beautiful child he was.

That afternoon they buried him, while the sun shone miraculously, as if to wam the spot where they laid him. And a procession of white, puffy clouds, like a flock of sheep, strayed up from the pastures behind the cemetery. So that Sybil thought of the way Teddy was learning to count. . . . Sheep jumping over a fence, every night as he lay in his little crib. . . . "One-two-three-four-five—what comes next, Muvver?"

She looked up into the skies. White, puffy clouds, like kind sheep, came to put Teddy to sleep.

Sybil dropped anonymous on her baby's casket and scattered over it the white violets that Mabel brought there were Valerie and Tad and Mabel and Jack.

Mrs. Thorne stayed away. They left her in the sunny nursery among Teddy's playthings, white-lipped and dazed—keeping up for Sybil.

When they reached home she had hot chocolate for them, and sandwiches. They ate dutifully and mournfully, painfully conscious that Teddy's little high chair had disappeared from the corner where it always stood, and his silver mug and pewter porringer also.

Sybil slipped her chocolate apathetically.

"No more cracker crumbs," she said mournfully. "No more cracker crumbs on your nice Oriental rug, Mother. No more smudgy finger marks on your lovely white paint."

She dropped her head in her hands. (To Be Continued)

(Is there anything in life left for Sybil? The concluding chapter brings her to the Harbor of Heart's Content.)

CONDEMNED NUN WOULD HELP HER FELLOW PRISONERS

Woman Hopes to Do Welfare
Work During Incarceration
in Penitentiary

BY JOHN LLOYD

Mexico City.—(AP)—Mother Superior Concepcion Acevedo de la Lita, sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment as "intellectual author" of the assassination of General Alvaro Obregon, plans to make use of her period of incarceration by doing welfare work among the inmates of the penitentiary.

Mother Conchita, as the nun is known familiarly to her many acquaintances, accepts her sentence with the same stoic attitude that she maintained since the time of her arrest. She insists she would have preferred death, but Mexican law does not permit execution of women.

The nun told newspapermen who interviewed her that she had dedicated her life to welfare work any way and she could do just as much good inside as outside of prison. She even expressed enthusiasm over the work she may be able to perform in the penitentiary.

Her desire to die, she said, was based on a long standing ambition to become a martyr. She has denied consistently that she had anything to do with Obregon's assassination, although the jury upheld the prosecution's contention that she used her influence over Jose de Leon Toral to induce him to commit the act.

During the trial she was referred to by defense witnesses as a saint and by the prosecution as the Lucrulla Borgia of Mexico. Witnesses for the defense declared she dispensed only the purest of thoughts to the hundreds of persons who went periodically to her home to hear mass and attend other religious practices. The federal prosecutor alleged she was possessed of the devil.

Mother Concepcion is 37 years old and spent 13 years in a rural convent before being assigned by the archbishop of Mexico to Mexico City to establish a religious institution. She told the court that her family for generations back was extremely and even to an exaggerated extent religious. The prosecutor asserted there was a definite strain of insanity in the family and that it was clearly evidenced in Mother Conchita.

The nun contends that her misfortunes are by "God's will" and that therefore she should accept them without protest.

SPIRIT DISPLAYED IN SCHOOL DEBATE

Affirmative Team of Appleton Argues Against Direct Primary

The first high school debate of the season, held at East Green Bay high school Wednesday afternoon, was characterized by spirited clashing of the two teams and thorough arguments on both sides.

The Appleton affirmative team, composed of Robert Mortimer and Miss Lenora de Wolfe, argued that the direct primary system of nominating state officers tends to weaken both state and national government and that it is out of harmony with democratic principles of government. Proofs of the first point were that the system breaks down party responsibility and weakens the party, that it results in minority rule, and that the best man does not appear on the ticket. Arguments for the second point were that the system is opposed by the greatest scholars and statesmen, that it places a premium on wealth, and that other systems—the Wallace Ingalls, the Independent magazine and the Hughes and Davies plans—have been worked out to take its place.

The Green Bay negative team argued that the system had been successful, that it is still being used, and that all attempts to repeal it have been frustrated.

Miss Agnes Huberty coach of the Appleton team, accompanied the debaters to Green Bay. Other high school people who heard the debate were Miss Katherine Hamm and Lawrence Goetschman, members of the Appleton negative team, and George Schoenke and Paul Hackbert.

ST. PAUL JUDGE HAS MARRIED THOUSANDS

St. Paul, Minn.—(AP)—Judge Henry Gallick, local court commissioner, wonders whether he is not a national champion, for he has performed 23,493 marriages in 33 years.

He officiated at 600 weddings last year. When war marriages abounded in 1917, he presided at 1,130 and the next year at 1,160.

Once he used two languages in the same ceremony because the man was Italian and the bride was Polish and neither understood the other's language.

"I've married them in Spanish, Polish, English, Italian and the Scandinavian languages," he relates, "and I have married them even when they were deaf and dumb. Some of the languages I can't speak, but then I get an interpreter for the ceremony. When the couples are deaf and dumb, I write the questions and have them write the answers."

Couples he marries now seem older to Judge Gallick than those who came to him years ago. He believes they think twice now before getting married and says this may have something to do with the decline in his business.

THEN HE LOST!

New Britain, Conn.—A woman who joined the vast crowd to greet Gov. Al Smith here lost her shoes in the rush. She was lifted off her feet and out of her shoes in the crush, and was carried along with the crowd. She spent several minutes locating the shoes.

BRAZIL FORESEES MUCH U. S. MONEY FOR INVESTMENT

Hoover's Visit Is Expected to Increase Flow of Gold That Way

By HAL WALKER

Rio De Janeiro — (AP) — Dollars from the United States seem destined to play a more important part in the development of Brazil than in any other South American country. It has been pounds sterling that have been working for many years in Argentina, to a lesser extent in Brazil and along the west coast.

The United States has heretofore been busy developing its own resources and dollars did not need to seek foreign investment. Since the world war conditions have changed and American money has gone far afield seeking profitable employment. The prospective visit of President-elect Hoover to Brazil is expected to stimulate the flow of North American capital toward the South American continent.

Brazil, larger by thousands of square miles than continental United States, occupying a considerable portion of South America, and probably with greater undeveloped resources than the entire remainder of the continent, is attracting this capital in ever increasing volume.

As an evidence of this fact the Empresas Electricas Brasileiras, of which Electric Bond and Share company of New York is the parent, controls and directs the operation of sixteen light and power companies in Brazil which serve more than 200 communities with a population of 3,500,000. The activities of this company have covered less than two years, for Mr. Paul B. McKee, director of Empresas Electricas, came to Brazil on January 23, 1927.

There are 100,000 consumers connected to the company's lines, the total horsepower of motors so connected is 80,000 and an additional 50,000 will be available when certain improvements have been made to existing power stations and distributing systems. The company serves six communities with street car service with a mileage of 200 miles, and operates telephone service in twenty-five communities.

Recife, capital of Pernambuco, with a population of 400,000, has its light, street railway and telephone service in the hands of this company from the United States, as does Bahia, another city of close to half a million population.

MUSICAL SERVICE PLANNED AT CHURCH

Church Choir and Seven Soloists Will Take Part in Program

A Christmas musical service will be given at the Congregational church Sunday evening by the church choir and seven soloists, under the direction of Carl J. Waterman. The soloists are Mrs. Marian Waterman, soprano; Miss Helen Mueller, contralto; John Phillips, tenor; Raymond Walsh, baritone; LaVahn Maesch, organist; and Miss Roberta Lanouette, violinist.

The program will open with an organ selection by LaVahn Maesch, "Christmas in Sicily" by Ton, followed by the anth. "Christmas Day" by Holst, an elaborate choral piece based on traditional Christmas carols.

J. Raymond Walsh will sing "A Christmas Alleluia" by Ganes, and "Seraphic Ode" by Rubinstein-Ganes, a new and unusual composition, will be presented by Miss Mueller and the choir, with violin obligato by Miss Lanouette. Mr. Maesch will play another Yon selection, "Yon Bambino," as an offertory.

The program will close with a cantata, "When the Christ Child Came" by Clokey, a contemporary composer whose music is cast in the modern idiom. This will be sung by Mrs. Waterman, Miss Mueller, Mr. Phillips, Mr. Walsh and the choir.

MUSSOLINI SPONSORS LEAGUE MOVIE PLAN

Geneva—(AP)—Film fans world-wide have an interest in the international educational cinematographic institute which was recently established at Rome under the auspices of the League of Nations. Italy provides the funds, but the League supervises the institute, from which much is expected in promoting the film industry as a powerful element in world education.

Senator Clippico of Italy conceived the idea, which was immediately sponsored by Benito Mussolini, who recognized the value of the cinema employed in the public schools of Italy. The statutes of the institute have been approved by the League Council.

The institute will work under the direction of the Council, advised by the committee on intellectual cooperation. The governing body will be composed of an Italian chairman and of fourteen members, as far as possible of different nationalities, appointed by the Council of the League. The secretary general of the League, the director of the international institute of intellectual cooperation, the director of the international labor office and the president of the international institute of agriculture may be represented at meetings of the governing body in an advisory capacity.

Under pressure of international women's associations a woman has been appointed on the governing body. She is Miss Gabriela Mistral of Chile, an author. The United States member is Dr. Vernon Kellogg of California, who is secretary general of the national research council of the United States.

Appleton Opens Season With Win From Neenah, 22 To 11

BOTH TEAMS GUARD CLOSELY; BASKET SHOOTING RAGGED

Neenah Seconds Eke Out Win Over Orange Squad, 25 and 23

NEENAH—The season's first basketball game is over for both Appleton and Neenah high school cagers and as expected, it was just a first game.

Whether Coach Shields wishes to admit it or not it showed in the Orange and Neenah possibilities as soon as the men became accustomed to working with each other and as soon as they get in a few more nights of practice. And despite the fact his team was defeated 22 to 11 in the fracas also revealed that when Schellier returns to the Neenah line-up, Coach Jorgenson again will have to face the prospect of a romp through the Northeastern Wisconsin conference.

Appleton's weaknesses were everything that would be looked for during the initial game. The men passed in a fair manner, but at times they were terrible; they failed to function properly on plays yet once or twice dashed down the floor with perfect team work; they missed innumerable field goals for lack of a shooting eye while the free throws they wasted was pathetic.

To their credit it must be said Kunitz and Schaefer played rare guard games holding Neenah to one field goal in the first half and two in the second. Neenah's lack of counter-attack also can be credited to lack of practice and team work, of course, but the two Orange guards never permitted the men to get set for a shot and rushed them all over the floor.

Rafath of center for the Shields-men looked far during the evening's battle; his jumping was good enough to make his defensive game, but his only weakness seemed to be in getting accustomed to handling himself and getting the short shots for which he is famous. Berg at forward, probably played the best scoring game for his team for he garnered four field goals for individual scoring honors while handling many passes. Gochnauer, Berg's teammate, failed to count all evening except on the free throw route, his main fault being unfamiliarity in handling the ball and lack of practice at tossing counters.

Neenah's main strength Thursday evening was in her guards, Ehlers and Johnson, although the latter seemed to be letting his opinion of himself get in the way of break up teamwork. The two youngsters are a couple of husky chaps who won't have much trouble pushing opponents away from the dangerous zone.

Coach Jorgenson has, a couple of coaches forwards in Thermaison and Gaertner and a handy reserve in a youngster named Schmidt. Give the three men the aid of the all round playing and basket shooting of Schellier, Jorgenson's injured center and they'll have a team that will almost make the fans forget last year's aggregation.

The two teams engaged in a running game in the first quarter, the scoring being 1 and 1 at the end of the period. Berg and Ehlers each counting on free throws. Appleton had obligingly missed four gift shots.

Appleton took a one point lead to open the second period and then Gaertner sent a thrill through the crowd by eging the first field goal of the evening, a short shot. Appleton tallied its first field goal on a long-toss by Berg and the half ended 8 and 4, free throws and a field goal by Rafath accounting for the additional points.

Johnson sank a basket for Neenah shortly after the opening of the second

PITTSBURGH FIVE LOSES TO BUTLER

Pennsylvania Helps Indiana Dedicate New Field House

Chicago—(P)—Two powerful eastern teams invade the Big Ten basketball ranks Friday night, Pittsburgh clashing with Northwestern at Evanston and Pennsylvania meeting Ohio State at Columbus.

Pittsburgh's midgeets met defeat in their battle with Butler college Thursday night, 35 to 33, but were favorites to triumph over Northwestern. Butler's sturdy cagers triumphed by spurring at the beginning and toward the end of the game.

With Van Heyde, regular center, out with an injured ankle, Ohio State anticipated a hard tussle with Pennsylvania, eastern collegiate title-holders last season. The Quakers defeated Ohio at Philadelphia last season, 33 to 28. Pennsylvania helped Indiana dedicate a new field house Thursday night, losing 26 to 34.

Purdue also faced a difficult task Friday night, tangling with Washington university at St. Louis. The St. Louis team, coached by Don White, former Purdue star, upset Indiana a week ago.

HOLY CROSS JINX TO HARVARD

Holy Cross has been a regular jinx to Harvard football teams in recent years. The Crimson have more trouble beating Holy Cross, when they do, than any other team on their schedule.

STARS ALSO IN BASKETBALL

Al Brodbeck, former Metropolitan district amateur golf champion and one of the best young golfers in the country, is a star forward on the Pennsylvania basketball team.

one half and Rafath made two free throws to put the score at 10 and 6. Johnson and Ehlers then combined to muss three chances at free throws. Berg scored a field goal and Kunitz a free throw to end the quarter with the score 13 to 6 for Appleton.

During the last quarter Berg came through with three field goals and Benny Rafath with one which, with a couple free throws, gave the Orange a lead that could hardly be overcome. The extent of Neenah's counting was a basket apiece for Stocker and Schmidt and a couple of free throws.

Members of the second squads of the two schools raised the curtain raiser the Neenah five eking out a victory 25 to 23. The Appleton seconds led at the end of the quarter, trailed at the end of the half 12 to 20 and then almost evened the count before the end of the game. Close guarding in the second half kept the Neenah team to two field goals.

Notre Dame Coach Has Pet Basketball Theory

BY BOB MATHERNE

R. GEORGE KEOGAN, whose business it is to make Notre Dame basketball teams as famous as Notre Dame football teams, has his own particular pet theory about the winning of basketball games.

Any time you can hold your opponents to 19 points in one game, you should put that game on the victory side of the ledger.

That is Mr. Keogan's theory and from the manner in which his teams at South Bend in recent years have been winning it must be accepted as a very sound theory and one worth getting a slight bit of attention from some of the institutions whose teams don't rate as high as those teams at Notre Dame.

It may be news that Notre Dame basketball teams rate just as much in their own particular sport as Mr. Keogan's football teams do in the grid world. In fact, long before Rockne made Irish football teams at Notre Dame what they are today the basketball teams of that institution were right on top with the best.

STARTED IN 1923

That, to be true, was many years ago and the few years before George Keogan took charge were not ones to brag about. But in the older days, along about the time that "Hippo" Vaughn, later to become famous as a fullback at Harvard, was playing center for Irish cage teams, the Irish had teams that took the best over in a basketball tussle.

The Irish basketball teams were down in fact way down, when Keogan arrived in 1923. Only a dirt basketball court was available for practice. All home games had to be played in the local Y. M. C. A. gymnasium.

Despite the handicaps and a slight lack of interest in basketball, the first team Keogan had at Notre Dame in 1923-1924 was better than any in years. The team won 15 games and lost eight. Its team a year later won 11 while losing 10.

This success caused the university officials to get generous and when

MAJORS TO CLOSE PLAYING SEASON OCT. 6, NEXT YEAR

Heydler's Plan for a Ten Man Ball Team Turned Down for Present

BY PAUL E. MICKELSON

Chicago—(P)—The major leagues have closed their shutters on the baseball draft problem, but it still cast a chill of discontent over the minors Friday.

Refusing to budge from the stand they have taken, officials and club owners of the National and American leagues, in joint session Thursday, informed the minor leagues that the perplexing question rested solely with them. They rejected an invitation to send representatives to the meeting of minor league clubs at West Baden, Ind., Jan. 10, during which the question is to be threshed out if possible.

If a conciliatory plan is adopted at the West Baden meeting, the major league officials said, they will be glad to hear of it at their next meetings in February.

Rejection of the plan of John Heydler, president of the National league, to have 10 men teams so that a pitcher would not have to bat; decision to open the major league season on April 16, a week later than last season and to close it on Oct. 6, a week later; several trades and discussion of the "farm" question were high lights of action at the joint meeting of the two major organizations Thursday.

The playing season was moved up a week because of the usually inclement weather, which trimmed attendances and caused many postponements last season.

President Heydler's 10 man team proposal received but scant consideration from the American league club owners and officials, who felt it would be harmful. President Heydler predicted the plan would be used some time.

While most clubs left the meeting with deals made, the New York Yankees went home without a single trade. Manager Miller Huggins, however, indicated he hoped to make a swap with the Philadelphia Athletics and the rumors were that it would send third baseman Sammy Hale and pitcher Rube Walberg from the "A's" to the Yankees in exchange for Pitcher Myles Thomas and either outfielder Bob Meusel or Benny Paschal.

Fessler, All-American, Is Sunday School Leader

BY BOB MATHERNE

ONE of those heroes you read about in story books and seldom see in real life—that seems the sort of a fellow this Wesley Fessler, Ohio State's All-American end, is.

Fessler, so we judge from the manner in which practically every important expert picked him for All-American, is the standout end of the year just like Cagle, Strong and Harpster are standout backs and Pund is the standout center.

And every time Russ Ashbaugh, coach of Fessler's high school team at Youngstown, O., seems an All-American selection with Fessler's name at end, he chuckles a bit harder.

Ashbaugh, a All-American at Brown 20 years ago, had Fessler aiding him in getting his school outfit together early in September before Ohio State practice started, and heard Fessler sing the blues almost every day about his chances of making the varsity at Columbus.

"The kid couldn't see where he had a chance to make the team, mind you, and now he is an All-American end," he says. "Well, he deserves it. He is a great player."

The original "Fessler for All-American" booster is Dick Larkins, a tackle on the same team. He plays next to Fessler.

Before the Ohio State-Princeton game Fessler, along with Larkins, spent the night at a friend's house. While they were dressing the next morning Larkins dropped his arms around Fessler's shoulders and talked to him about the coming game.

"Say, it's about time for some of you ends to get going for that All-American team," he told Fessler, "and TODAY is THE day for you to do your stuff. Get out there before all these experts today and make the All-American. You can do it and I'll help you!"

As a concluding remark, he gave Fessler a friendly tap on the nose which brought forth blood, but Fessler played his heart out against Princeton. That was his first big step towards the All-American honor.

Fessler, as mentioned above, is one of those story book heroes whose deeds inspire the younger generation to bigger and better things.

He has no bad habits. He doesn't swear. He is the leader of a Sunday school class in his home town. He works hard every day at practice. He trains strictly. And he is an "A" student in his classes of the engineering school.

He is a friendly fellow, too, and has brought forth blood, but Fessler played his heart out against Princeton. That was his first big step towards the All-American honor.

INGWERTSON GIVEN ANOTHER CHANCE AT UNIVERSITY OF IOWA

Great Team This Year Brings Retention as Mentor for Another Season

Iowa City—(P)—Burton Ingwersen will coach Iowa's football team again next year.

Ingwersen, the youngest coach in the western conference, was the target of criticism by Iowa alumni in 1927 when his team had a disastrous season, finishing close to the cellar in the championship race. He and his supporters asked for one more chance and it was granted despite the opposition.

He more than made good during the recent championship race. His team was in the running for the title up to the last second of play. His reward came Thursday when Iowa athletic officials announced his retention as coach.

Ingwersen was one of the best ball carriers ever to wear the orange and blue of Illinois.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

POP WARNER didn't even put Bill Hoffman, his Stanford fullback, on his All-Coast team . . . And he said that Cagle was the greatest back of the year . . . And Chuck Carroll came next . . . During the Notre Dame-Southern California game a balloon floated over the field bearing a pennant advertising hair restorer . . . And the crowd yelled for Rockne to take off his hat . . . The Rock has a head like a cue ball . . . Van Graflan, the American League ump, appeared at the winter meeting with spats and a stick . . . And he got a job umping for the Tigers in the spring.

WOMEN BOWLERS CALL OFF FRIDAY MEETING

FLYWEIGHT TITLE AT STAKE FRIDAY

Canadian Champion Meets Frankie Genaro for Second Time

Detroit—(P)—The flyweight championship of the world will be at stake when Frankie Genaro, present holder of the title meets Steve Rocco, Canadian champion, in a ten round bout Friday night.

The pair met in Toronto, Rocco's home, last summer and fought to a draw. Rocco was only a few weeks out of the amateur class at that time and figures to be enough improved now to defeat Genaro. The veteran titleholder expects his experience and ringcraft to offset Rocco's aggressiveness and youth.

They were to ring in at 3 o'clock this afternoon and neither was expected to have any trouble making the division limit of 112.

The contest will be the first title bout in Detroit since 1927, when Sammy Mandell defeated Phil McGraw, Detroit, in defense of his lightweight title.

GUS SONNENBERG VIES FOR WRESTLING HONOR
Boston. (AP)—Gus Sonnenberg, of Providence, R. I., former Dartmouth football star and now a professional wrestler, has gone a long way this week toward proving the contention of his supporters that he is the "miracle of the mat."
Since Monday he has vanquished four worthy opponents in as many nights.
Last night he disposed of former George McLeod of California here in two falls.
On Wednesday night he took the measure of Ed Maguire, Boston heavyweight, in a two fall bout at Worcester while on Tuesday he flattened Joe De Vito at Providence. De Vito was unable to continue after the first fall.
Sonnenberg started off the week at Lawrence by throwing Frank Yusko of Lithuania.

NICE QUIET BOYS, THESE FRENCH RUGBY PLAYERS
Marmande, France. (AP)—Rugby football has become so rough in France that newspapers everywhere have begun a movement to "clean up" the game.
A match between Marmande and Bergerac has brought the movement to a head. A marmande player virtually strangled the Bergerac captain, Beausoleil, during a game while thousands of spectators looked on. Beausoleil was carried off the field unconscious with his tongue hanging out and foam on his lips while Marmande rosters howled: "well done! Kill him!" Police had to be summoned to keep them from attacking the rest of the Bergerac team.
Beausoleil narrowly escaped death. The sporting press said the time had come to put an end to such brutal play, remarking that under present conditions in France a straight-jacket was more suitable for players than a rugby jersey.

ELKS HOLD SWEEPSTAKE BOWLING MEET SATURDAY
A three game sweepstake will be held at the Elk alleys Saturday, Dec. 15, according to announcement. The entry fee will be $1 and the tournament is open to the general public.
Two match games are scheduled for Sunday afternoon on Elk alleys. In one the Appleton Aces will meet the Kimberly-Clark Specials formerly the Kimberly Blue Moons. The game will begin at 2:30. The English Lutheran Brotherhood team will meet the Green Bay Brotherhood, with four teams bowling against each other.

AL SINGER WILL MEET CANZONERI FRIDAY NIGHT

New York. (AP)—Al Singer, east side featherweight flash, only a year and a half in the game, a clever boxer and hard hitter, meets Tony Canzoneri, former 126-pound titleholder, in a ten round match at Madison Square garden Friday night.

Singer has had a meteoric career, but expert opinion is inclined to doubt whether he is yet prepared to "take" so rugged and experienced a fighter as Canzoneri, who lost his featherweight championship to Andre Routs of France, a few months ago. Since then he has outpointed Gaston Charles, another Frenchman, in ten rounds and knocked out Chick Suggs in four.

Lightweights will battle in the supporting bouts. Tommy Grogan, the Omaha, Neb., slugger meets Lew

The Story of Christmas

After the Ghost of Christmas Past had shown to Scrooge a happy vision of Scrooge's youthful days and old Fezziwig's merry Christmas parties, one more scene was conjured up. It was another Christmas when old Marley, Scrooge's former partner, had been at death's door and Scrooge was lonely in his office.

By NEA, Through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge, Copyright, 1922-26

Then Scrooge seemed to see an old sweetheart of his who had married. The happy couple were enjoying Christmas together.

The Ghost of Christmas Past then vanished and Scrooge fell upon his bed where he sank into a heavy sleep.

When Scrooge awoke again it was still dark outside, but the room was filled with a mysterious ruddy light. Scrooge trembled with fear and the expectation of the second spirit that Marley's ghost had said would visit him that night. Cautiously Scrooge went to the door. A strange voice bade him turn the knob.
